Post-War Program

Armed Forces Staff College
BY VICE ADMIRAL J. L. HALL, JR., USN
Commandant, Armed Forces Staff College,
Norfolk, Va.

As a result of World War II experiences, it was clearly recognized by the leaders of our Armed Forces that any large-scale or decisive operation of the future would involve a joint effort on the part of two or more of the Armed Services; hence, the establishment of an institution of learning to advance instruction in joint operations was clearly indicated. For this purpose, the Armed Forces Staff College was brought into existence on 28 June 1946.

Vice Adm. Hall

The first Commandant, Lt. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, USAF, brought to the college a rich background of joint service experience, beginning with his assignment to the Hawaiian Department at the outbreak of World War II, and subsequent duty in both the Western Defense and the Alaskan Commands during the later course of the war. General Emmons assembled a faculty from the three Services whose range of experience included joint operations in all theaters of World War II. Subsequent faculty replacements have either been graduates of the college or officers with outstanding records in the field of joint operations, including both staff and combat. This replacement policy will continue during my tenure of office as Commandant.

The selection of the student body of each class, numbering 150 officers (approximately 50 from each service), is handled somewhat differently by each service. In general, however, the student selected has had a minimum of eight years' service, carries a general efficiency rating of superior, and either has graduated from the highest unilateral school of his service or has had war experience equivalent thereto. The intense interest displayed in the course of instruction by the students of all classes attests to the efficiency of this system.

Although only three classes have graduated to date, the college has already become aware of the contribution to joint action being made by these graduates. As a result, the demand for graduates far exceeds the available supply; and this condition is expected to persist for many years to come. Also, comparing the total of 300 graduates a year with the approximately 30,000 officers on the active list of requisite rank and length of service to be eligible as students, it does not seem likely that the desirable prerequisite of attendance at the Armed Forces Staff College prior to enrollment as a student (Please turn to Page 371)

5153 Warrant Officers; More to be Announced

The names of 3,247 new warrant officers in the Army and 1,906 in the Air Force were announced yesterday and top officials emphasized that there are hundreds of additional appointments to come.

The complete Army and Air Force warrant officer lists begin on page 384. The Army and Navy Journal will, of course, publish all other warrant officer lists as they are made available.

An additional list of approximately 500 warrant officer appointees is scheduled for release in December. Many of those on this supplemental list will be in the 904 classification, aircraft maintenance and inspection, who must be certified by the Civil Aeronautics Authority before appointments can be made official.

Those appointed yesterday are mainly administrative and technical personnel, with others designated as instructors in weapons, operations and intelligence training.

Marine Selection Boards

Senior Marine Corps selection boards to choose officers for promotion to the rank of major general and brigadier general will be convened in January.

Although no promotion zones have yet been established, all colonels who have three years' service in grade are eligible for promotion to brigadier general, providing that they fall within the promotion zone when announced. Promotion zones are dependent upon the authorized distribution of officers by grade to be established by the Secretary of the Navy on 1 Jan. 1949. Officers who may be considered for promotion and required to take promotion exams have been listed in Marine Corps Letter of Instruction 1605, and in a recent issue of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL.

Junior selection boards will be convened as soon after the senior boards as "administratively practicable," according to the Marine Corps. Officers with the following number of years' service in grade are eligible if they are within the (Please turn to Page 371)

RESERVE RETIRED-PAY

Comptroller General decisions which will enable the Services to put into effect the new law authorizing non-disability retired pay for Reserve personnel are reported in detail on the next page of this issue.

Boards for Permanent Air Promotions Set Up

(Names of 250 Air Force officers selected for temporary promotion to colonel on page 367.)

Selection boards to consider Air Force officers for promotion to permanent grades of lieutenant colonel, major and captain are slated to meet in Washington early in December.

Promotions resulting from these selections will be made after 1 Jan. 1949.

The "fully qualified" method of selection will be used. The Deputy Chief of Staff, Personnel, has been instructed to submit for consideration names of officers falling within this schedule:

Lieutenant Colonel: All permanent majors who complete 21 years service for promotion purposes prior to 1 Jan. 1950.

Majors: All permanent captains who complete 14 years of service prior to 1 Jan. 1950.

Captain: All permanent first lieutenants who complete seven years of service prior to 1 July 1949.

(Army selection boards convened recently considered permanent majors with 17 or more years of service prior to 1 Jan. 1949; permanent captains with 11 or more years' service before 1 July 1949; permanent first lieutenants who complete six or more years' service prior to 1 July 1949.)

Air Force officers have been told that if they are scheduled for consideration, they may submit a written communication under provisions of Section 507 (C), Public Law 381, to the Deputy Chief of Staff, Personnel, Attention: Selection Boards Secretariat.

These letters must arrive at Headquarters before 15 Dec., and may be submitted directly to USAF Headquarters.

A seven-man selection board to consider records of 700 officers for future temporary promotions to the ranks of brigadier general and major general has been convened at Air Force Headquarters.

Air Force officials refused to divulge the identity of the board members.

The board reportedly is considering records of 100 officers for promotion to major general and 600 to brigadier general.

Air Force personnel officers say that there are no vacancies at the present time—that the board is merely setting up an eligibility list from which future promotions will be made.

The Air Force has determined that its general officer strength will be limited for the present to 195 officers and that is the number now filling such billets.

The board to consider officers for temporary promotion to the rank of lieutenant colonel probably will not be convened until after 1 Jan.

With regard to the board to select officers for temporary promotion to major, AF officials estimate that initial meetings will not be held until February or March.

In the major commands, selection boards to choose first lieutenants for temporary promotions to captain will meet next month, their conclusions to be sent to Washington for final review and action by a captain selection board at AF Headquarters.

Comptroller Rules On Reserve Retirements

Anxiously awaited by military personnel officials and by all Reserve and National Guard members, critical decisions of the Comptroller General pertaining to interpretation of eight provisions of Public Law 810 were revealed late this week.

Presumably, it will only be a matter of days now before the Army, Navy and Air Force release regulations concerning retired payments for Reservists who complete 20 years creditable service.

As predicted in last week's issue of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL, the Comptroller General ruled that beneficiaries of the new legislation must be members of a Reserve component at the time of application. This means that a person who completed 20 years' service previously but who is not now affiliated with a Reserve unit would be barred from retired pay benefits.

But so important is this issue that the Comptroller General was moved to comment: "The question is of grave importance and if the considerable doubt that exists is to be resolved against the interests of the Government, it is the view of this office that it should be resolved by the Congress and not by interpretation."

From this, it may be surmised that the issue will be brought up for consideration before the 81st Congress.

The Comptroller General held also that 29 June, and not 1 July as sought by the Services, is the date on which the post enactment method of computing becomes effective.

The ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL publishes below the questions as submitted to the Comptroller General by the Secretary of the Navy and the CG's answers. (When the Services release regulation details concerning these payments, these will be reported in similar detail.)

(a) "Are the Secretaries of the Army, Navy, and Air Force authorized under sections 307, 312, or any other section of the Act to prescribe that the pre-enactment method of computing points under section 302 be effective through 30 June 1948, and that the post-enactment method of computing become effective on 1 July 1948?"

The CG replied that the law does not give the Secretaries such authority; that section 307 must be disregarded; and that 29 June 1948 is the date when the post-enactment method of computing takes effect.

(b) "May the Secretaries, pursuant to section 312, establish January 1, 1949 as the date on which Title III takes effect, without jeopardizing the right of individuals concerned to receive credit for points during the period intervening between the date of enactment (or 1 July 1948) and 1 January 1949?"

The CG's answer was in the affirmative, as section 302(b) provides for the accrual of points subsequent to the "enactment" of the Act.

Questions (c) and (d) were as follows and were answered together: "(c) Can any portion of the 50 point per annum credit for service, other than Federal Service performed prior to enactment of the Act, be credited to an individual for less than one year's service; and (d) Can any portion of the 15 point credit provided for by section 302(b)(3) of the Act be credited for membership in a reserve component for part of a year subsequent to enactment of the act?"

To these questions the CG replied in the affirmative as follows: "There is no express provision for this in the act" but "it is reasonable to conclude that the Congress intended to permit the points in question to be prorated for a fractional part of a year."

Questions (e) and (f) were as follows and were answered together: "(e) Is the paying agency authorized to credit retired pay retroactive to the date of completion of eligibility requirements of age and service, or 29 June 1948, whichever is later, even though the certificate of entitlement to retired pay is issued subsequently to such date; and (f) If the answer to question (e) is negative, what date may be selected by the paying agency to start crediting retired pay?"

The CG's answer was: "It will be noted that section 302(a) provides that otherwise qualified persons shall 'upon application therefor' be granted retired pay. That provision at most gives an inchoate right to retired pay which vests only after application is made therefor and such application is approved. Hence as a general proposition no retired pay would accrue prior to the date of approval of the application therefor. However, there is for consideration the fact that under the terms of section 312 the act does not become effective until the date set by the cognizant Secretary, but not later than 1 January 1949, and until the act actually is made effective it would appear that applications for its benefits could not properly be filed or approved. It would seem that one of the purposes of section 312 was merely to permit a delay in the acceptance of such applications until such time as the various services could establish and place in operation the necessary administrative procedure for processing them. With that in mind and taking into consideration the fact that the express prohibition against the accrual of back pay and allowances contained in section 310 refers only to back pay and allowances for any period prior to the enactment date, the conclusion appears warranted that persons who were otherwise qualified for such retired pay on 29 June 1948 or who became qualified therefor between that date and the date finally set as the effective date of the act, would be eligible to receive retired pay from the time they qualified therefor, or from 29 June 1948, whichever is later, provided application for such retired pay is filed and approved within a reasonable time after the effective date of the act is announced. Personnel becoming qualified for retired pay after the effective date of the act" (by section 312) "would be eligible to receive such retired pay only from the first day of the month following the month in which their application therefor is approved in view of the provisions of section 302(a) and the provisions of Section 1 of the Act of 23 April 1930, 46 Stat. 253, U.S.C. 47a."

Question (g) was: "Is an individual who is not a member of a Reserve component, but who was formerly a member of a Reserve component and who has completed all requirements for retirement benefits except the attainment of the age of 60 years prior to separation from such Reserve component, entitled to receive retirement benefits upon reaching the age of 60 years?"

To this the CG replied that section 302(a) authorizes retired pay for "any person" who attains or has attained the age of 60 years and who meets the requirements set forth therein, but such section does not expressly state that such persons must be members of the reserve at the time they reach 60.

Continuing his answer to this query, the CG stated: "However, section 301(b) makes no provision for placing on such list the name of former reservists. Notwithstanding the broad language of section 302(a), in view of the apparent legislative intent as indicated by the other sections of the act referred to, question (g) is answered in the negative."

Following his negative answer to query (g) the CG stated it as his opinion that "the question is of grave importance and if the considerable doubt that exists is to be resolved against the interests of the Government, it is the view of this Office that it should be resolved by the Congress and not by interpretation."

Question (h) was: "May an individual who has been transferred to an inactive reserve status, pursuant to section 304 of the act be restored to a status in which he can earn additional retirement credits?"

The affirmative answer of the Comptroller General was that personnel in an inactive reserve status may according to law be ordered by the Secretary of the Navy "to active duty" or "to an active reserve status" and so enabled to earn additional retirement credits.

Gen. Lanham At Chicago

A lucid explanation of the status of the Army in American Democracy was presented this week by Brig. Gen. C. T. Lanham, USA, special assistant to General Omar N. Bradley, USA, Chief of Staff, in an address before the National Council for the Social Studies at Chicago. Discussing the direction in which Army leaders are guiding the peacetime expansion program, General Lanham said:

"In time of peace a free society regards its Army with distaste and often with suspicion. This is normal, for an Army by its very structure is the antithesis of everything held dear by a democratic community. It is authoritarian; nor can it compromise with that principle if it is to survive on the field of battle. Its leaders are necessarily vested with great power and are therefore constantly subject to the corroding and corrupting influences that attend personal power. Its men, in their own interest and in the national interest, must acquire the habit of obedience or suffer for it, a process unfavorably known as regimentation. And finally, a free people do not relish in their midst the incredible destructive power that is unavoidably concentrated in the military establishment—a power so vast, so awful that the human mind staggers with disbelief in its presence. These then are the facts—facts that the most skillful apologist can not evade. And facts they shall remain so long as an infantile world society clings to its tribal totems and invokes organized force as its ultimate arbiter."

"These very real fears have repeatedly led us in previous times of peace to reduce our Army to a state of impotence, wall it up in isolated and forgotten garrisons handed down from frontier days, and then wipe it from our minds and, I am afraid, from our consciences. An Army can not thrive on Burke's prescription for the colonies—salutary neglect. An Army abandoned by the clergy, ignored by education, pilloried by the press, and forsaken by the civil community will inevitably degenerate professionally and rot morally. This has happened before. We must not let it happen again, for in addition to the social evils implicit in such miasmic conditions, our military weakness invites external forces to destroy the very values we had sought by this deliberate policy to safeguard."

"Surely then, since Utopia has not yet arrived, we must support and sustain an Army adequate to the evils of the day. And since such an Army will of necessity embrace great numbers of our young men, we must see that this substantial period of their lives is not spent in a civic vacuum, in an educational wasteland in a moral slum."

Medical Experts Report

Maj. Gen. Raymond W. Bliss, The Army Surgeon General, and Brig. Gen. George E. Armstrong, Deputy Surgeon General, addressed the third annual meeting of the Society of United States Medical Consultants in World War II, 22 Nov., at Sternberg Auditorium, Army Medical Center, Washington, D. C.

Generals Bliss and Armstrong said the procurement picture has improved, but indicated solution of the problem is far from solved.

"Last year," General Bliss declared, "I stressed the fact that our very survival depended upon finding an answer to what looked, then, like an almost hopeless situation; namely, the securing of adequate professional personnel—primarily doctors—to enable the Medical Department to perform its essential mission. I would be in error if I conveyed the impression that what was almost hopeless last year, was now only difficult. But I would be correct in maintaining that the trends are all in the right direction and the situation, although fraught with danger, looks somewhat brighter than a year ago."

U. S. Air Force Promotes 250 to Temporary Colonels

The Air Force has promoted 250 officers—190 Regulars and 60 non-Regulars—to the temporary grade of colonel, effective 22 Nov.

This brings to 1,777 the number of temporary colonels in the Air Force, authorized a total of 2,216 officers in this rank. This means that 439 vacancies for temporary colonels remain.

All of the 190 Regular officers and the 60 non-Regular officers promoted to the temporary grade of colonel have been serving in the temporary grade of lieutenant colonel. Of this 190, the first 178 on the list are also permanent lieutenant colonels. The last 12 are permanent majors.

The following officers were considered for these selections:

1. All Regular permanent grade lieutenant colonels not holding temporary appointments as colonel or higher.
2. All non-Regular officers currently serving in the grade of temporary lieutenant colonel who were 33 or more years of age or who completed eight or more years of active federal commissioned service prior to 1 July 1948. For administrative reasons, periods of active duty covering 90 days or less and all periods of active duty with the Civilian Conservation Corps were not counted in computing active federal commissioned service.
3. All other Regular officers and non-Regular officers, regardless of permanent grade, who were reduced from temporary grade of colonel without cause as a result of the grade readjustment programs.

Listed in the order of their permanent rank, the 190 Regular Air Force officers are:

Memorial to Fliers

ARTHUR BLISS LANE
2442 Massachusetts Avenue, N. W.
Washington 8, D. C.

Dear Sir:

I am very pleased to inform you that, thanks to the valuable cooperation afforded by your magazine, the subscriptions for the erection of a monument to honor the five United States fliers shot down over Yugoslavia in 1946 now total $1,150.00, thus exceeding our goal of $1,100.00.

Plans are now being made for the design and construction of the monument. The advice of the families of the five deceased fliers is being solicited.

Very sincerely yours,
(Signed)

Arthur Bliss Lane.

Board to Select Navy Captains

The Navy selection board which will convene next week to select officers for promotion to the rank of captain, will consider:

- (1) All line commanders, except those serving in appointments of limited duration in grade of commander, who will have five years' service in grade or in a higher grade 30 June 1949, computed from date of rank as commander.
- (2) Eligible commanders now serving in appointments of limited duration in the grade of captain.

The promotion zone in the grade of commander, according to ALNAV 75, dated 19 Nov., will include Hayes Edward Irons, whose signal number in the 1 July 1947 Register is 2513, and all officers senior thereto.

The selection board will meet on 29 Nov.

Service Pay Report

The report of Secretary of Defense James Forrestal's Commission on Service Pay will be made public as soon as possible.

Despite previous and contrary reports, and unless there is a last-minute switch in policy, the long-awaited pay study will be made available without awaiting Bureau of the Budget analysis.

The ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL was told that, unless there are unforeseen complications, the pay report should be ready for public release by mid-December. A possibility exists that it may be made available even earlier, although late this week this seemed unlikely.

There was some speculation that aides of Secretary Forrestal may not even wait until the pay report is printed before releasing its contents. Instead, the pay study may be mimeographed and made available almost simultaneously with its delivery to Secretary Forrestal.

It is apparent that such rapid action is predicated on the knowledge that the pay report is of vital concern to all military personnel and will have a direct bearing on enlistments, reenlistments and procurement of additional officer personnel.

Because of the plan to release the report with such dispatch—once it is submitted to the Defense Secretary—it may be that Mr. Forrestal's conclusions and recommendations to Congress will not be made available at the same time the Service Pay Commission document is made public.

Canned Citrus Fruits

Requirements for canned citrus fruits and juices from the 1948-49 pack to supply the needs of the Army and Air Force were announced by the Department of the Army this week as follows:

Grape fruit segments: 16,677,000 No. 2 cans, or a total of 20,847,000 pounds.

Juice, grape: 943,000 pint bottles; 1,230,000 quart bottles; and 61,961 No. 10 cans, or a total of 3,798,000 pounds.

Juice, blended (orange and grapefruit): 2,105,778 No. 2 cans; 7,803,478 No. 3 cylinders, or a total of 24,804,000 pounds.

Juice, grapefruit: 3,136,000 No. 2 cans; 6,161,739 No. 3 cylinders, or a total of 21,243,000 pounds.

Juice, orange: 29,637,000 pounds.

Army Selection Board Reports

The report of the selection board to recommend Army officers for temporary promotion to the rank of lieutenant colonel reportedly has reached the White House.

Therefore, it is likely that it will be available for publication in next week's issue of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL.

Meantime, the report of the board to select officers for permanent promotion to the rank of major is said to be completed and will be sent to the President late this month or early in December.

The captain board is slated to complete its task by mid-December.

Army personnel officials previously had expressed hope that results of the selections could be made known before Christmas and the smooth-working boards apparently will meet that aspiration.

The promotions, however, cannot be made effective until 1 Jan.

Interest in the results of these selections is high because it marks the first time that "pass overs" will count.

Analysis of the promotion lists published in recent issues of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL—the status of every Regular officer in the grades of colonel down to second lieutenant was reported—will show that "pass overs" were made by the selection boards.

Therefore, it is recommended that these issues be retained for future study.

Army officials also have made available statistics concerning the number of officers considered by the selection boards. They are as follows:

Army List	Approximate no. to be considered
Lt. Col.	590
Maj.	1050
Capt.	1820
Medical Corps
Lt. Col.	30
Maj.	30
Capt.	None

Permanent Army Colonels

A board to select Army officers for permanent promotion to the rank of colonel will be convened soon after the first of the year.

Also slated to be convened is a board to select officers for promotion to general's rank.

Appointment of these boards would conclude the first round of permanent selections in which "pass overs" count officially.

Navy-Air Force Exercise

A Navy-Air Force training exercise was held in the Far East starting 17 Nov. in the Philippine Sea and East China Sea areas south and west of Japan's main islands of Honshu and Kyushu. Units of Navy Task Force 38 and of Far East Air Forces' Fifth Air Force and First Air Division participated in the three day exercise.

Navy Task Force 38, now in the Western Pacific, consisting of several carriers and suitable cruiser and destroyer escort was under the command of Rear Adm. Samuel P. Ginder. Brig. Gen. Edward W. Timberlake, commanding the 315th Air Division with headquarters at Itazuke, was designated the Air Task Force Commander for this exercise.

The exercise was designed to familiarize the participating units with operating procedures of both arms and offer an opportunity to each task force to determine effectiveness of the combined training program.

Meteorological Conference

Air Force Captains George J. Bogovich and Merle P. Woodall of the A-3 Section, Headquarters, 2043d Air Weather Wing in Tokyo, represented SCAP at an International Meteorological Organization conference, New Delhi, India, 10-17 Nov.

Upon completion of this meeting, Captain Bogovich returned to Tokyo and Captain Woodall remained in New Delhi to represent Col. Thomas S. Moorman, Jr., Commanding Officer of the 2043d Air Weather Wing at the International Civil Aviation Organization Southeast Asia Regional Air Navigation meeting which convened in New Delhi on 23 Nov.

Two Generals to Retire

General Robert L. Elchelberger, USA, former Commanding General of the Eighth Army, and General Courtney H. Hodges, Commanding General of the First Army, will retire within two months.

General Elchelberger is slated to complete his active Army service on 31 Dec. Since his return from Japan in September, he has been on duty with the General Staff, pending retirement.

General Hodges will end his Army career on 31 Jan. He gained renown during World War II as Commanding General of the First Army in its sweep across France and Germany.

Maj. Willoughby Pacific PIO

Maj. Jesse D. Willoughby, USA, has been appointed Public Information Officer, U. S. Army, Pacific, succeeding Col. Kendall J. Fielder, USA, for whom he had been executive officer since last August. Colonel Fielder who has been handling two jobs, will continue as Commanding Officer, Headquarters, Organized Reserve Corps, Ft. Armstrong.

Before Maj. Willoughby arrived in Honolulu last August he had been secretary of the general staff and historian for Joint Task Force 7 which conducted the atomic tests at Eniwetok. He lives at Ft. Shafter with his wife Dorna and son Michael.

Army Turkey Consumption

For Thanksgiving and Christmas Day meals, Army cooks will prepare approximately 1,260,000 pounds of turkey. Army strength is about 630,000. Turkey purchases are based on an anticipated carcass weight consumption of one pound per man.

UNITED STATES ARMY

Balloon Altitude Record

Establishment of a balloon altitude record of 140,000 feet—20,000 feet higher than the previous maximum—is claimed by the Army Signal Corps. The record was set by a specially built balloon flown by Evans Signal Laboratory, Belmar, New Jersey, in weather-forecasting and rocket-launching experiments. To reach the 140,000-foot mark, the record-setting balloon spent two and a half hours rising above the earth.

Lt. Col. A. F. Cassevant, Evans Signal Laboratory director, who announced that the record was set on 28 Sept., pointed out that the greatest height ever attained by a balloon carrying human beings was 72,395 feet. That was accomplished in 1935 by Captains Albert W. Stevens and Orvil A. Anderson. The balloon that rose 140,000 feet carried only meteorological instruments.

Committee on Chemical Warfare

Dr. Harlan N. Worthley, director of the agricultural and textile chemicals research department of Merck & Co., Inc., Rahway, N. J. this week was appointed executive director of the Committee on Chemical Warfare of the Research and Development Board, National Military Establishment. Dr. W. Albert Noyes, Jr., chairman of the committee, announced that Dr. Worthley will assume his duties 3 Jan.

Dr. Worthley served as a major, lieutenant colonel and colonel in the Chemical Corps during World War II. He is a member of the Officers' Reserve Corps.

Chaplain Miller Reports

Church attendance is gratifying and military personnel are demonstrating increased interest in the seven-day-a-week program at chapel centers throughout the Pacific.

This is the summation of Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Luther D. Miller, Army Chief of Chaplains, just returned from a 28,000 mile inspection trip to the Pacific—the first ever made by a Chief of Chaplains to that area.

Chaplain Miller was accompanied by Chaplain (Col.) Martin Poch, Executive Officer, Office Chief of Chaplains. They visited Hawaii, Guam, Okinawa, Korea, Philippines and Japan during the five-week tour.

Chaplain Miller told the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL that Army commanders are cooperating splendidly with the Army's approximately 120 chaplains in the Pacific Area.

In Japan, General Douglas MacArthur described as "magnificent" the job being done by chaplains throughout his command.

Chaplain Miller said that morale is high among troops throughout the Pacific and that their dependents are pleased with the Army's efforts to make them as comfortable as possible. He paid particular tribute to the Special Services activities and particularly to the operations of the Post Exchanges.

Army Mutual Aid

The Army Mutual Aid Association received 21 applications for membership during the past week and paid insurance benefits on account of the death of Maj. Gen. George C. Beach, Jr., and Brig. Gen. John M. Weir.

Medical Selection Board

The board to select officers of all branches of the Medical Department for promotion was slated to conclude its meetings late this week.

Tentatively, it is reported that results of this board will be ready for release about 20 Dec.

Army Relief Society

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Managers of the ARS was held on 10 Nov. at the Society's office in the Empire State Building.

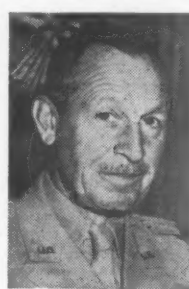

The president, Mrs. David Wagstaff, presided, and the members present were: Mrs. E. Sanderson Cushman, Mrs. Hugh A. Drum, Mrs. Chauncey L. Fenton, Mrs. Benjamin G. Ferris, Mrs. Benjamin H. Kerfoot, Mrs. Ellis Knowles, Mrs. R. Parker Kuhn, Mrs. Aristides Moreno, Mrs. Dennis E. Nolan, Mrs. Arthur W. Page, Mrs. Robert P. Patterson, Mrs. Allan M. Pope, Mrs. Charles Spofford, Mrs. William Stephenson, Mrs. Maxwell D. Taylor, Mrs. Clarence P. Townsley, Mrs. Roscoe B. Woodruff.

34th Division Meeting

There will be a meeting 1 December of former members of the 34th Infantry Division Association (Red Bull), chapter 5, at the Heurich Brewery Co., 25th & D Sts., N. W., Washington, D. C., at 8:00 P.M.

Gen. Moore To West Point

Maj. Gen. Bryant E. Moore, Chief of the Public Information Division, will succeed Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor as Superintendent of the U.S. Military Academy, West Point, New York. The orders are effective 1 Feb. 1949.

General Moore

General Moore has been Chief of the Public Information Division, Department of the Army, since 26 July, 1948.

Prior to that he was Commanding General, Trieste United States Troops, Free Territory of Trieste.

General Taylor's new assignment will be announced later. Also not disclosed was the identity of General Moore's successor.

A graduate of the Military Academy, General Moore was commissioned a 2d Lieutenant of Infantry on 30 Aug. 1917. At the outbreak of World War II he was Associate Professor of Military Science and Tactics at the University of Illinois. In January 1942 he was ordered to the Pacific Theater and proceeded with a task force from New York to New Caledonia. This task force was later reorganized to form the Americal Division. In October 1942 General Moore proceeded to Guadalcanal as commander of the 164th Infantry, and reinforced the 1st Marine Division on that island.

General Moore returned to the United States in February 1943 and in August 1944 accompanied the 104 Division to Europe as Assistant Division Commander. Later he became Command General of the 8th Infantry Division in the ETO and still later became Commanding General of the 88th Infantry Division when it was assigned as the occupation force for Venezia Giulia, Northeast, Italy.

General Moore is a native of Ellsworth, Maine, where he was born 6 June 1894.

General Taylor, a native of Missouri, where he was born 26 Aug. 1901, was graduated from the Military Academy in 1922 and was commissioned a 2d lieutenant, Corps of Engineers. He later transferred to the Field Artillery.

Early in World War II, General Taylor was on duty in the Office of the Secretary of the General Staff, War Department, and in July 1942 was assigned to the 82d Infantry Division as Chief of Staff. He assisted in organizing the first Airborne Division of the Army and became artillery commander of the 82nd Airborne Division in December 1942. He served with this Division in the Sicilian and Italian campaigns and in March 1944 became Commanding General of the 101st Airborne Division, which he led on its airborne invasions of Normandy and Holland. He was appointed Superintendent of the Military Academy in September 1945. Under his leadership many advancements have been made toward keeping the Academy and the cadets abreast of the modern developments in warfare and toward a closer understanding with and appreciation of the other Armed Services.

Crowned in solid steel, this smart and handy Estate Wagon sets a new style pattern on either ROADMASTER chassis with 150 hp engine or SUPER chassis with 115 hp (increased to 120 hp by Dynaflo).

Full-curved windshields feature all these models, including this tidy six-passenger Sedanet. ROADMASTER or SUPER chassis.

This Roomy 4-Door Sedan seats six, has 22% more glass area. On ROADMASTER or SUPER chassis. White sidewall tires, as illustrated, available at extra cost.

Looks fine for '49

Top, front seat and all windows are push-button controlled in this sleek Convertible. ROADMASTER (150 hp) or SUPER (115 hp) chassis (with Dynaflo—120 hp.)

Extra room, extra view and Dynaflo too in the bountiful new 1949 Buicks

THIS you're going to like! For its looks—its room—the wonderful view it gives...

Above all—for the happy news that now you can have Dynaflo Drive on the Buick SUPER as well as the Buick ROADMASTER.

Check it—for style, for comfort, for instant response to command—and see for yourself why this brilliant Buick is the year's top buy.

Sleek, flowing lines from bumper to bumper—with chrome-ringed VentiPorts striking a new style note while functioning as heat outlets for the engine compartment.

Stepped-up visibility from more glass area more artfully used all around. Room to spare—and made greater by deep-cradling seats. Easier access through wide-swinging doors that are feather-light in action.

Under every bonnet, lively Fireball power, cradled on Hi-Poised engine mountings—plus new self-setting valve lifters on all Dynaflo models to keep engines lastingly quiet and efficient.

On every wheel, buoyant Quadruflex coil springing and big, soft, low-pressure tires on wide Safety-Ride rims that spell far better car control.

On all ROADMASTERS, with their brilliant 150 hp engines, Dynaflo Drive is standard equipment. On all SUPERS, it is optional at extra cost. And there are two parade-trim models of 110 hp in the SPECIAL Series.

In every model—room, a view, the steadiness and heft of a truly big car—and delivered prices that shine more brightly with every comparison made.

Make these comparisons for yourself. See what your dollar buys in Buick and you'll not lose a minute getting your order in.

Adm. Jennings to Fleet Air Wing
Rear Adm. Ralph E. Jennings, USN, has been ordered to report as Commander, Fleet Air Wing, Alameda, Calif., relieving Rear Adm. Dixwell Ketcham, USN.

Admiral Ketcham recently was ordered to report as command Carrier Division Five. Admiral Jennings is being relieved by Rear Adm. Joseph J. Clark as Commander, Carrier Division Four.

Admiral Jennings was born in New York City in 1897 and graduated from the Naval Academy with the class of 1919.

From the start of World War II until April 1943, he was on duty in the Inspection Division, Office of the Chief of Naval Operations, Wash., D. C. After fitting out the USS Copahoe, he commanded that auxiliary aircraft carrier from her commissioning in June 1943, until Jan. 1944.

In February 1944 he assumed command of the aircraft carrier USS Yorktown and for his services in this command he was awarded a Legion of Merit and received a Letter of Commendation.

From March 1945 to Oct. 1945 he had duty as Commander, Carrier Division 12 and for his services in this command, along with duty as Commander, Carrier Training Squadron, Pacific, with additional duty as Commander Carrier Divisions 11 and 12, he was awarded a Bronze Star Medal.

Missing Warhead Found

The shattered warhead of a German V-2 rocket, launched nearly two years ago in a scientific effort to record data on cosmic rays was found by searchers on 16 Oct., according to information received this week by the Applied Physics Laboratory of Johns Hopkins University, Silver Spring, Md.

The rocket was fired from the White Sands Proving Ground, Las Cruces, New Mexico, at 10 P.M., 17 Dec. 1946. The warhead of the rocket which reached the record altitude of 114 miles, was discovered about 20 miles north of the launching site and about four-tenths of a mile from the spot where the main portion of the rocket was found, shortly after the firing. The discovery was made by an Army recovery team.

Military Colleges and Schools

Eighty members of the Association of Military Colleges and Schools visited the U. S. Naval Academy on 22 Nov.

The party was officially greeted by Rear Adm. James L. Holloway, Jr., USN, Superintendent of the Academy, and Capt. Frank T. Ward, USN, Commandant of Midshipmen.

Escorting the members of the Association were Comdr. Dana B. Cushing, USN, Executive Officer of the Department of Foreign Languages; Comdr. John G. Spangler, USN, Executive Officer of the Department of Electrical Engineering; Comdr. Thomas P. Lowndes, USN, Executive Officer of the Department of Seamanship and Navigation; and Comdr. Robert E. Dornin, USN, Executive Officer of the Department of Physical Training.

Navy's "Flying Wing"

A new Navy swept-wing jet fighter designed for shipboard operation, the XF7U-1, has successfully completed its initial flight tests at the Naval Air Test Center, Patuxent River, Md.

The tailless XF7U-1 has some of the characteristics of a flying wing. The arrangement offers certain advantages over the conventional type, particularly in the high speed range, and is totally unlike that of any Service aircraft thus far revealed.

Incorporation of sweep-back in the wings, known to be desirable in high-speed airplanes, with a twin-engine installation, makes this Navy fighter potentially capable of speeds in excess of current models of operational jets, land or carrier based. It is rated in the "over 600-mile-an-hour class."

The unconventional design incorporates two vertical stabilizers and rudders located at the trailing edge of the wing, but longitudinal and lateral control are provided by a pair of "ailerons," which are, at the same time, ailerons and elevators.

The XF7U-1 has a high rate of thrust. This is primarily due to its high ratio of thrust and wing area and weight.

A unique feature of the XF7U-1 is the absence of landing flaps. To achieve the relatively low speeds necessary for landing aboard carriers, the airplane is equipped with leading edge slats. The extension of these slats during a landing approach delays the stalling points and increases the wing lift. Speed brakes are located at the trailing edge of the wings for reducing speed rapidly when required in maneuvers and landing approaches.

The XF7U-1 power plant consists of two turbo jets. For combat performance, high bursts of power may be obtained through after-burners, producing large increases in thrust for short periods. The air intake ducts are in the leading edges of the wings of the wing roots.

To overcome the tremendous forces brought on by high speed flights, all controls in this Navy fighter are operated by hydraulic power. In this system the pilot provides, in effect, only the signal for the work he desires to be done; the actual work is performed by jacks, not unlike the hydraulic jacks used to raise automobiles. And, since the control system is irreversible, the designers have had to incorporate an artificial "feel" for the pilot which stimulates the control forces encountered in conventional aircraft.

Exceptional flight visibility is obtained by having the cockpit situated well forward in the nose of the airplane. The cockpit is pressurized to assure the pilot of comfortable breathing at the altitudes obtainable.

Another feature of the XF7U-1 is the use of magnesium in certain areas instead of the usual aluminum alloy covering. Although magnesium has been used in other aircraft, the XF7U-1 has used more of this material than other craft. This has resulted in a considerable decrease in weight.

The aircraft has an ejectable type pilot's seat for bailing out at high speeds, should this become necessary through enemy action or other difficulty. Both the pilot and the seat are ejected from the airplane at a velocity calculated to clear all parts of the aircraft structure. In the final descent the seat is jettisoned for a normal parachute landing.

The XF7U-1 is a conventional carrier-based fighter in every other respect.

Marines Join Pacific MATS

Marine fliers have teamed up with Navy and Air Force in the Pacific under the Military Air Transport Service insignia. Air crews from VMR 352, a Hawaii-based Marine air transport squadron, are flying MATS airways westward from Hickam Air Force Base.

The "Leathernecks" are furnishing 15 "Skymasters" to the MATS flight operation in the Pacific on a temporary basis, replacing 24 Navy MATS transports from this division now on their way to Germany and the Allied Airlift into American-occupied Berlin.

First Marine ship to fly a MATS route took off 4 Nov., on flight 235 to Guam via Johnston Island and Kwajalein. With 1st Lt. D. R. Kingsley, USMC, plane commander, at the controls, the aircraft departed with four other Marine air crews aboard to be staged at relief points for other MATS Marine flights.

As the Marines filtered their quota of aircraft into the MATS Pacific airlift, Division headquarters at Hickam took on even more of an atmosphere of integration with the arrival of two Marine liaison officers.

They are Lt. Col. John S. Carter, USMC, veteran Marine flier and Operations Officer at VMR 352's Marine Corps Air Station at Ewa, and Capt. Robert W. Hoffman, USMC, VMR 352 Loading Officer. They will return to their Ewa duties when the Marine planes are relieved from MATS flights.

Lt. Col. Herman Rumsey, USAF, assistant director of Pacific Division's Operations office and Comdr. Charles J. Eastman, USN, Division Plans Chief, flew an Air Force plane to Guam on trip 227, 4 Nov. Colonel Rumsey was plane commander. Commander Eastman was co-pilot. The trip was the first scheduled MATS flight taken out by a mixed Navy-Air Force crew.

Lt. Comdr. H. J. Kicker, VR-8 pilot, was plane commander of the first Air Force transport to be flown by a Navy aircrew for MATS, the beginning of a MATS plan to use remaining Navy MATS aircrew to fly Air Force C-54's while VR-8 MATS transports are in Germany on Vittle runs.

Ram Jet Test Stand

Chemical Plants Division of Blaw-Knox Company completed construction for the Navy of a large test stand for testing ram jet engines at simulated high altitudes. It was announced this week. Located at the Applied Physics Laboratory of the Johns Hopkins University in Silver Spring, Maryland, the test stand will be used in a guided missile research program sponsored by the Navy Department.

Employing a test tower 60 feet high and 6-1/2 feet in diameter, the installation simulates flight conditions for altitudes from sea level to 60,000 feet and is reported to be the first of its type permitting such a variety of conditions.

The amount of the contract, awarded by the Navy's Bureau of Ordnance, was $115,500.

WASPS May Join AF Reserve

Former members of the Women's Auxiliary Service Pilots—WASP—may now join the USAF Reserve. Authority is contained in AF Letter No. 35-103B.

For the purposes of appointment, service with the WASP, excepting periods of training, will be construed as commissioned service.

You'll get special attention from Army and Navy Journal advertisers—they cater to Service personnel.

Leading Sub and Surface Units

Selection of the leading Surface and Submarine Divisions of the U. S. Naval Reserve was recently announced by Rear Adm. T. L. Sprague, Chief of Naval Personnel.

First place in the surface units went to Division 1-13, Fall River, Mass., and the number one spot in the submarine units fell to Division 3-23.

The units were examined on personnel, administration, and training. Scores of 30 each were possible for the first two categories and 40 for the latter. The Fall River Division rated a total of 89.88 points, and the Brooklyn unit, a total of 83.41.

Other units and their relative standings were as follows:

Surface
2 Stockton, Calif.	8 Seattle, Wash.
3 San Bernardino, Calif.	9 Joliet, Ill.
4 Eddystone, Pa.	10 Orlando, Fla.
5 Alexandria, La.	11 Pearl Harbor, T. H.

The Annual Meeting of the Navy Relief Society will be held in Room 1517, Building T-3, Navy Department, Washington, D. C., at 10:30 a.m. on 3 Feb. 1949.

In accordance with the By-Laws of the Society, the Nominating Committee has submitted the following names of candidates for election to the Board of Managers for a period of three (3) years beginning in February, 1949.

For three year term ending February, 1952:

Vote for one: Rear Adm. I. N. Kiland, USN; Rear Adm. F. C. Denebrink, USN; Rear Adm. R. S. Riggs, USN.

Vote for one: Mrs. C. B. Cates, Mrs. R. M. Griffin.

The following only may vote for candidates for Manager: (a) A member of the Board of Managers, (b) The President of an Auxiliary or his authorized representative, (c) The Commander of a Fleet or his authorized representative.

Auxiliaries and Representatives in the Fleet are, therefore, requested to send their votes for two members of the Board of Managers to the Secretary of the Society, Room 1504, T-3 Building, Navy Department, Washington 25, D. C., so that they will reach Washington prior to the date of the Annual Meeting, 3 Feb. 1949.

Candidates for election are not limited to those submitted by the Nominating Committee, which are given above, but will include those names submitted in writing by not less than three persons authorized to vote at the Annual Meeting of the Society and received by the Secretary prior to 1 Jan. 1949.

Waves to General Line School

Preparations are being made at the General Line School, Newport, R. I., for the arrival of 25 WAVE ensigns who will compose the first class for the indoctrination of WAVE officers, which will require 20 weeks. Lt. Sybil A. Grant will direct the course, with Lt. Estha Freeman and Lieutenant (jg) Beatrice M. Truitt as instructors. All three of the WAVE officers have had previous naval service.

To Address Reserve Officers

Vice Adm. Robert B. Carney, USN, Deputy Chief of Naval Operations for Logistics, will address the Reserve Officers Association at the Essex House Hotel, New York City, on Monday, 29 Nov., at 8:00 P.M.

at the National War College will soon be attained. While the rather natural urge for perfection causes faculty opinion to favor a course of greater length, this would only accentuate the shortage of graduates unless the capacity of the college could be materially enlarged; and this appears unlikely in the near future.

All of the bachelor officers and a great majority of the married officers—staff, faculty and students—are quartered at the college. This system affords the families an opportunity to become better acquainted through close daily contacts and has made a material contribution to the welfare of the college. Many valuable inter-service friendships have resulted therefrom.

Every activity at the college, curricular and extra-curricular, is pointed towards the development of that not-so-secret-weapon—teamwork. Bearing in mind its primary mission, namely, to teach the organization, composition, and functions of theaters of operation and major joint task forces and the responsibilities of the commanders thereof, the college has adopted a system of instruction conducive to the maximum attainment of thoroughness.

Faculty instruction includes both conferences and lectures. Practical instruction is conducted by the seminar method. Student groups, either with or without faculty supervision, solve various problems confronting joint staffs, after appropriate orientation concerning the characteristics and limitations of the tools of war employed by the various services. This method permits and encourages the maximum exploitation of individual experiences. The frequently somewhat dogmatic viewpoints of individuals are harmonized and broadened by arguments and discussions with a common aim of mutual improvement. The comparative shortness of the course is an apparent factor in maintaining student interest at fever pitch from the opening exercises to graduation.

An outstanding feature of instruction is that imparted by guest lecturers. These include the heads or representatives of all the major services and specialized talent, military and civilian—each an authority in his particular sphere. Each lecture is followed by a lengthy discussion period in which students are afforded an opportunity to ask detailed, and sometimes, pointed, questions of the visitor. Since both the lecture and question period are off the record, a clear and searching insight is afforded to the subject under discussion. The fact that the confidence of visiting lecturers has never been betrayed by unauthorized disclosures on the part of the faculty and student body results in complete frankness and unreserved presentations of immense value as background material for the applicatory type of training engaged in.

The very scope of the instruction mission has permitted comprehensive area studies (strategic, tactical, and logistical) of many realistically envisaged theaters of operation throughout the world. These studies have been conducted by both seminar and lecture methods and in the light of the impact of possible future developments, both as regards weapons and psychological factors.

The location of the college is ideal for familiarizing students with the techniques of the several services. Forming a part of the world's largest naval base, access is readily available to operating units of the Atlantic Fleet. The headquarters of the Army Field Forces and the Tactical Air Command, U. S. Air Force, as well as the Naval Amphibious Training Command, are closely adjacent. The recently formed joint staff of the Commander-in-Chief, Atlantic Fleet, is a next-door neighbor. Each class visits the Infantry School at Ft. Benning, Ga., and/or the Air Force Proving Ground at Eglin Air Force Base, Florida, for the purpose of observing the actual employment of weapons and equipment of the Army and Air Force. The Tactical Air Command provides the air lift for these visits as well as an elaborate program of indoctrination in the employment of air forces in coordination with army units.

To those officers possessing the qualifications indicated herein, the Armed Forces Staff College offers a course intensive enough to be challenging while still leaving sufficient time and the opportunity for forming lasting useful friendships with officers of the other services, who, like themselves, are definitely on the up-grade in their profession, and with whom they may expect to be closely associated in the event of another great national emergency.

The Armed Forces Staff College is now entering upon its third year of operation. It has shaken off its growing pains and, with a veteran staff and faculty, faces the future with confidence and with a feeling that it has rightfully earned its niche in our national defense establishment. Moreover, it has the deep and lasting satisfaction of knowing that its graduates have been its greatest boosters.

Air Power "Most Potent Force"

Air Power is the most potent material force in the world today, General George C. Kenney, USAF, commanding general The Air University, told sixty-nine graduates of the Air Command and Staff School's third Associate Course, 19 Nov. He envisioned the possibility that national boundaries as we know them today will no longer be potential battle grounds because of air power and nations will learn to cooperate so they may survive.

The class was composed of Air Reserve and Air National Guard officers, except for three Marine reserve officers. General Kenney told them that the Regular Air Force is organized for the opening moves if "we get into trouble again." He added it cannot last long without reserves and that the winning team in war or football is the one with the strongest reserves.

"Just as Naval power and sea power changed the course of civilization in the past," General Kenney said, "so will Air Power affect the course of history and civilization in the future. It has already made clear its influence on the security of all nations on the globe."

General Kenney was introduced by Maj. Gen. Earl W. Barnes, USAF, commandant, Air Command and Staff School. Among those present for the ceremonies, in addition to families and friends of the students, were Col. Morton H. McKinnon, deputy commander for administration, The Air University; Col. Delmar T. Spivey, deputy commander for education, TAU; Col. M. K. Deichelmann, deputy commandant, AC&SS; Col. S. D. Grubbs, commanding officer, 3800th Air University Wing; Col. Curtis R. Low, course director; and Col. Roger Phelan, assistant director.

Chaplain Gerard J. Joly gave the invocation and Chaplain Philip H. Oxnam, the benediction.

According to Col. Curtis R. Low, course director, students have received the bulk of their instruction via the conference method whereby students participated in discussions following presentations.

AF School to Open

The Air Force's first post-war school to train various aircraft control and warning teams for assignment to operational units of Air Defense Command will open at Orlando, Fla., AFB early next month.

Approximately 900 officers and enlisted men will be permanently stationed in the aircraft control and warning school, with a peak student load of about 1,000 officers and enlisted men entering the course of training each three months.

Personnel who have received individual technical training in Air Training Command will be assigned to the school for training in teams and assignment, as members of an operating team, to Air Defense Command. Examples of the various aircraft control and warning teams are: direction finding team, aircraft plotting team, message center team, aircraft control team, and various radar and radio teams. Each team will receive approximately three months' training and will be assigned as a unit upon graduation.

Although there will be some classroom work, most of the training will be in actual job performance using radar equipment, control centers, and other equipment peculiar to aircraft control and warning organizations. Of the 1,000 students in each three-month class, about 500 will be trained at locations away from the main Orlando base to give more realistic training at isolated radar sites.

AF Character Guidance

To implement its Character Guidance Program, the Air Force has established a Character Guidance Council at Headquarters and similar councils at each echelon of command through base level.

The Air Force said: "Character guidance is a term developed to define all actions which tend to encourage the growth of moral responsibility, spiritual values and strong self-discipline in the individual. It is founded upon the assumption that the Air Force has an obligation to the parents of the youthful airman to duplicate the wholesome influences of the home and the community, so far as practicable under conditions of military service."

Brig. Gen. D. C. Strother, Director of Military Personnel, is chairman of the council. Other members are Chaplain (Col.) Charles I. Carpenter, Chief of Air Force Chaplains; Maj. Gen. Malcolm C. Grow, The Air Surgeon; Maj. Gen. Hugh J. Knerr, The Inspector General, USAF; Brig. Gen. J. V. Dillon, Air Provost Marshal, and Col. E. E. W. Duncan, Chief, Personnel Services.

To Command 97th Bomb Wing

Brig. Gen. David W. Hutchison will assume command of the Eighth Air Force's 97th Bomb Wing, Biggs AFB, El Paso, Tex., on 1 Dec., it was announced at Ft. Worth, Tex., by Maj. Gen. Roger M. Ramey, Eighth AF Commander.

General Hutchison, former Asst. Chief of Staff, Operations Branch, Hq., Strategic Air Command, succeeds Col. George L. Robinson, who will leave for England for duty with the 97th Bomb Group, now on temporary duty with the USAFE.

Air Force Finance

The story of how the Air Force is assuming its own finance responsibilities around the world and how it is maintaining close coordination with the Army to insure maximum economies was recounted to the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL this week by Col. K. E. Webber, Air Force Director of Finance, and his deputy, Col. John R. Gilchrist.

They said that at the present time the Air Force has 383 finance officers, but needs an additional 200 immediately.

The breakdown of the finance officers now on duty with the Air Force is as follows: USAF, 111; USAFR, 133; AFUS, 27; RA, 23; ORC, 85; AUS, 3; and CMP, 1.

In addition to a need for 100 officers to augment present strength, the Air Force needs about 100 other officers to replace Army officers on duty with the Air Force.

The Air Force finance office functions as a part of the Office of the Comptroller.

Already paying its own personnel throughout the United States and personnel with tactical units abroad, the Air Force is laying the groundwork for the future publication of complete finance regulations. These will, however, almost exactly parallel Army regulations, for in all planning the Army and Air Force finance experts are formulating joint policies.

At the Army Finance Center in St. Louis, Mo., 14 troop spaces have been allotted to the Air Force. Deputy Commandant of the center is Col. L. S. Graham, an Air Force officer.

Whereas the Air Force is paying its own personnel except at certain overseas installations where it is more convenient and economical for the Army to continue this function (in some areas, Army personnel are being paid by Air Force finance officers), the Army will continue to handle allotments, old claims, retired pay and transportation accounts. This is an economy measure and results from the fact that the Army has the personnel and equipment for such tasks.

To discharge its new finance responsibilities, the Air Force has established an Air Force Disbursing Network.

Personnel assigned to finance duties are receiving training for the present at the Army Finance Center, St. Louis, Mo. This is practical, since Air Force and Army finance procedures will vary as little as possible.

What will be different, effective 1 July 1949, is the fact that for the first time the Air Force will be utilizing its own appropriation funds. This will result from adoption of the first Air Force budget in history.

New USAF Transport

The Air Force's YC-122 assault transport aircraft has successfully completed its first test flight at Mercer County Airport, Trenton, N. J., remaining aloft 42 minutes.

The twin-engine C-122 is a modified version of the CG-18 cargo and troop transport glider. It is an assault transport designed to carry military equipment and combat troops.

The C-122 is powered by two R-2000 engines, each rated at 1350 horsepower on takeoff. The aircraft has a design gross weight of approximately 30,000 pounds, a service ceiling of about 23,000 feet, and carries a crew of two. Wing span is 86 feet 3 inches, length is 53 feet 4 inches, and is 19 feet 8 inches high.

AF Inspection Trip

Under Secretary of the Air Force Arthur S. Barrows is expected to return to Washington from an inspection trip to the Pacific, including conferences at Headquarters, Far East Air Forces in Tokyo.

A former president of Sears, Roebuck Co., Under Secretary Barrows is an expert on procurement, supply distribution and industrial matters. He is accompanied on this trip by Maj. Gen. E. M. Powers, USAF, assistant to the Deputy Chief of Staff, Materiel, and Col. David J. Ellinger, USAF, also of Headquarters.

U. S. COAST GUARD

SIMULTANEOUSLY with the return this week of the Wright Brothers famous plane, "Kitty Hawk," from London to the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, it was disclosed that a Coast Guardsman played a historic role on 17 Dec. 1903, the day of the first airplane flight.

That Coast Guardsman was J. T. Daniels, a member of the Kill Devil, N. C., Life Saving Station.

With other Coast Guardsmen, Daniels helped the Wright Brothers get their pioneer plane in position for the epic flight. Then, as the "Kitty Hawk" slipped its rope and started off at a speed of probably seven or eight miles an hour, Daniels snapped the only picture made of plane in flight. At that instant, the plane was two feet off the ground.

A newspaper account from 1903 tells how Daniels dispatched a picture of a later flight: "Although the only photograph of the first flight was taken by J. T. Daniels, a member of Kill Devil Life Saving Station, photographs of other flights made during the month of December 1903 traveled far before they were mailed. A member of the Life Saving Station at Kitty Hawk hurried four miles on foot to place them in the hands of a guard belonging to the Currituck Station, who sent them on with all possible speed to another life saver at Virginia Beach, by whom they were forwarded to the American (New York American) correspondent at Norfolk."

Coast Guard finance officials said this week that less than 100 cases to be re-examined for personnel retired under the Lighthouse Service Retirement Law. Re-computations were necessary on the basis of gross compensations along the lines permitted in the Comptroller General's Decision, B-70029, 23 Oct. 1947. It is expected that this task will be completed by 1 Jan. 1949.

Gradual extension of the training course for Electronic Technicians at the Groton Training Station to provide applied training on loran, radar and sonar, in addition to the 16 weeks of elementary electronics studies, will be undertaken, but Coast Guard personnel experts emphasize that post-graduate on-the-job training will continue all important.

Comdr. Robert T. Alexander attended a recent meeting of the Armed Forces National Research Council Vision Committee at Randolph Field, Tex. As operation of numerous visual aids to navigation, the Coast Guard is vitally interested in all research relating to visibility of lights and objects.

Coast Guard commanders have been ordered to review measures being taken to safeguard the loss of small arms. It is reported that a considerable number of locks on armory doors and pistol lockers have been forced or sawed off. There are reports also that subversive or other undesirable elements may be trying to obtain weapons.

AF Generals Reassigned

Reassignment of four Air Force general officers was announced this week. Brig. Gen. Fay R. Upthegrove, USAF, commanding general of Chanute AFB, Rantoul, Ill., will be assigned to headquarters of the USAF in Europe, at Wiesbaden, Germany.

Brig. Gen. Aubrey L. Moore, USAF, commanding general of Goodfellow AFB, San Angelo, Tex., will replace General Upthegrove as commanding general of Chanute AFB.

Brig. Gen. Joseph Smith, USAF, commanding general, Wiesbaden Area Command, at Wiesbaden, Germany, will be assigned to the office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations at USAF headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Brig. Gen. Robert W. Burns, USAF, formerly chief of staff, Air Training Command, Barksdale AFB, Shreveport, La., has become deputy commanding general of Air Training Command.

AF Bases Reactivated

The Air Force will reactivate three World War II Air Force Bases within the next few months, and has asked War Assets Administration to withdraw two former military installations from surplus preparatory to possible future use.

The bases to be reactivated are: Las Vegas AFB, Nev., late this winter. Mountain Home AFB, Idaho, 1 Dec. Chatham AFB, Savannah, Ga., 1 Dec. The installations to be withdrawn from surplus are:

Fairfax AFB, Kansas City, Kans. Cedar Grove Quartermaster Depot, Shreveport, La.

An advanced single-engine training program will be established at Las Vegas AFB about 1 March 1949. Some Air Force personnel are now at the field, beginning preparations for reactivating the base as a training station. During World War II the base was used for gunnery training. As a training station the field will come under the jurisdiction of the Flying Training Division of Air Training Command.

Mountain Home AFB will be removed from the temporarily inactive list to become a base of Strategic Air Command. A geodetic squadron is being assigned there.

Chatham AFB is being returned to the Air Force for use by the Strategic Air Command.

The Air Force has requested WAA to withdraw Fairfax AFB, from surplus for Air Force Reserve activities. The base was used during the war for Air Transport Command pilot training. Modification and assembly plants at the base will continue to be used by private industry. Cedar Grove Quartermaster Depot is being withdrawn from surplus for use of the 47th Bomb Wing, which is moving to Barksdale Air Force Base, Shreveport, from Biggs AFB, El Paso, Texas. The depot was used by the Army during the war.

Gen. Hume in Chile

Social medicine and public health were the subjects of a course of lectures at the University of Chile given by Brig. Gen. Edgar E. Hume, USA.

General Hume arrived in Chile 17 Nov. and on 19 Nov. opened a new 120-bed Chilean Army tubercular hospital which will bear the name of Franklin D. Roosevelt. The institution which is located at Guayacan, about 25 miles from the capital city, Santiago, was constructed jointly by the Chilean Government and the Institute of Inter-American Affairs at a cost of $300,000.

AF Enlisted Promotions

The first increment of Air Force promotions to ranks of technical and master sergeants is scheduled to be made on 1 Dec. Additional promotions will be made on 1 Feb. 1949.

A total of 2,250 promotions to these top enlisted grades will be made, 750 to master sergeant and 1,500 to technical sergeant. This means that next week promotions should go to approximately 375 technical sergeants and 750 staff sergeants.

7th Anniversary for CAP

Larger than ever before in its history and increasing at the rate of approximately 1000 members a month, the Civil Air Patrol will celebrate its seventh anniversary on 1 Dec.

Under command of Maj. Gen. Lucas V. Beau, USAF, the CAP, composed of patriotic civilian airmen, provides with its 51 Wings a strategic auxiliary to assist the Air Force in event of emergency.

Current strength of the CAP is 160,900, of whom 119,000 are active members. Approximately 100,000 youngsters between the ages of 15 and 18 are receiving ground and pre-flight training under CAP auspices.

This is only one aspect of the CAP's continuing program to make the Nation aware of the necessity for aeronautical supremacy.

That the CAP is guided in this pursuit by wise counsel is assured, for General Carl Spaatz, former Air Force Chief of Staff, has been since 31 Aug. chairman of the CAP National Executive Committee.

Other members of this Committee are CAP Colonels D. Harold Byrd, Vice Chairman, Tex.; Harry K. Coffey, Oregon; Leverett Davis, Idaho; Irven A. Myhra, North Dakota; J. Michael Morris, Ariz.; Fay M. Thomas, Mich.; Stuart C. Welch, N. Y. and W. C. Whelen, Tenn.

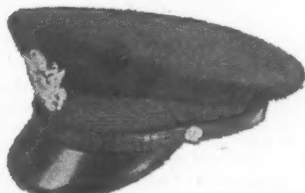

With the advent of severe winter weather, the CAP this year, as it has been doing since 1941, will be available for rescue missions. Throughout the year, its members train diligently for such tasks, with Wings from adjoining States often merging for joint air maneuvers.

Only when ordered into the air by the Air Force for rescue assistance do CAP members receive compensation for expended gasoline. Otherwise, all expenses are defrayed by the members as a patriotic contribution to the Nation's security.

The CAP's No. 1 Wing (there is one Wing for each State, District of Columbia, Alaska and Hawaii) is California, where more than 10,000 members are enrolled.

National headquarters are at Bolling Field, Washington, D. C.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1948

"Freedom of the seas is essential to our prosperity in peace. In time of war it is the basis of our very existence as a nation."—ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE NAVY MARK E. ANDREWS.

THE American Federation of Labor at its recent convention in Cincinnati passed several resolutions favoring higher compensation and improved working conditions for civilian employees of the Federal Government. Some of these resolutions, while referring only to civilian employment, are particularly pertinent to the commissioned personnel of the Military Services. They include upward revision of Federal pay, a $10.00 per diem subsistence allowance for employees in a travel status, reimbursement at seven cents a mile for official use of private automobiles, complete uniforms and accessories at Government expense, and elimination of multiple taxation of Federal employees by states and subdivisions. All of these items are at least as applicable to the military as to the civilian personnel. It is hoped that all of them will receive favorable Congressional consideration. Increased military compensation will doubtless be urged by the Hook Commission on pay revision in a report expected soon. An increase in the per diem allowance and reimbursement for use of a private vehicle on official business have long been urged by the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL. The present $7.00 per diem was fixed in the pre-war era and at present costs is often insufficient for a hotel room, leaving nothing for meals and other expenses. For 30 years officers of the Armed Forces have been buying gasoline and oil from personal funds and wearing out their private automobiles on Government business. There have never been enough official cars and the Services have come to expect officers to use their own vehicles for necessary transportation in connection with their military duties. Since this is necessary the Government should provide reimbursement. No adequate provision has ever been made to cover the cost of uniforms and accessories. Each officer must have a double wardrobe, both uniforms and civilian attire. Changes in regulations occasionally make little-worn uniforms obsolete and burden the officer with additional expense. An adequate allowance is long overdue. Some relief should be provided for officers and civilian employees from multiple taxation by the Federal Government, by the States, counties and municipalities of which they are legal residents, and by the subdivisions in which they are stationed. The proposals advanced by the American Federation of Labor in the interest of Federal employees should be so broadened as to be applicable to the Military Services.

THE Department of the Air Force has too long delayed the issuance of promotion lists of the Regular Air officers. The recent publication of the Army promotion lists makes all the more incomprehensible the attitude of the Air Force. It is understood that announcement of the Air Force's official arrangement of officers' names will be delayed until the issuance of the official Officers' Register next Spring. However, it is planned to convene boards to select Air officers for permanent promotion soon after the first of December. Necessarily lineal lists must be prepared for the use of these boards. Withholding such compilations from general publication would appear to be not only unwarranted but highly inadvisable. Officers have every right to know their own seniority. Unless they have ready access to a promotion list they cannot know whether they are likely to be among those considered for advancement. Without such lists they cannot even know whether they have been passed over for promotion by the current selection boards, and yet their future career is directly dependent on such action, since if they are twice passed over they must be eliminated from the active list. The recent large integration of new Regular officers in the Air Force and the reshuffling of seniority as a result of the initial promotions some months ago make it impossible, under present conditions, for an officer to determine even approximately his current standing. In the interest of fairness to its officers it is hoped that the Air Force will reconsider its decision to withhold until Spring publication of its promotion lists. The immediate release of the seniority standings of the officers in each grade would be a definite contribution to Service morale.

AS a result of a narrow interpretation of Public Law 910, which authorizes retirement pay of the highest temporary grade satisfactorily held during the war, some retired officers are not receiving the higher compensation to which they would appear to be clearly entitled. The law specifies that retired officers shall be advanced to the highest rank held satisfactorily for at least six months while on active duty in the period between 9 Sept. 1940 and 30 June 1946, and shall receive retired pay based on the pay of that grade. Some officers with less than 30 years' service who retired on their own request as lieutenant colonels in 1940 and 1941 under applicable statutes at 75 per cent of their pay, having served in the Army prior to 12 Nov. 1918, were recalled to active duty in 1942 and were promoted to colonel. It seems clear that under Public Law 910 they should now receive as retired compensation 75 per cent of the base and longevity pay of colonel. However, since they have had less than 30 years of active service their retired pay is being computed at two and one-half per cent for each year of active duty, which in some cases is less than the amount they had previously received as retired lieutenant colonels. Because of a saving clause in Public Law 910 no actual loss results, but the officers are deprived of the increased pay apparently authorized by the Act. The contention is made that existing statutes no longer authorize voluntary retirement at 75 per cent of active duty pay for those with less than 30 years' service, so the only applicable law in such cases is that which grants retirement at two and one-half per cent for each year of active duty. In support of this view several opinions of the Comptroller General are cited which hold that the 75 per cent voluntary features of various laws are applicable only to permanent grades and not to higher temporary rank. Such reasoning appears specious when it is clear that Public Law 910 had the effect of making temporary rank permanent under specified circumstances for purposes of retirement. However, the Finance Department will ask for a specific ruling on this point and it is hoped that the Comptroller will consider the obvious intent of Congress to give these retired officers the increased compensation they earned by their war service. If not the Services should immediately request the necessary legislative relief in such cases.

Service Humor

Tally-ho!

"Last year I bought a horse that was supposed to be a hunter."

"How was he?"

"Rotten. All the time I had him, he never caught a thing."

—Broadcaster.

Don't You Think?

She—"Isn't it amazing how dark it gets so early?"

He—"Not any more amazing than getting dark later if it wasn't so early."

She—"How early can it get to be so dark so late?"

He—"Does it have to be late to be dark if its dark when its early?"

She—"I know, but if its dark and its early then I think its late and if I think it late then I can't get used to its being early. Don't you think?"

—Midnight Sun.

Ouch!

"So Liz is sore at her husband? I thought he was perfect. He always turned over his pay check to her on the first of the month."

"Yeah, but she just found out he gets paid on the fifteenth, too."

—Op. Lee Traveler.

Salty

On the dock the bluejackets were awaiting transfer aboard ship. In the dusk a seaman called out to a blueclad figure dimly seen, "Hey Mac, got a match?"

A lighted match was forthcoming, and by its light the bluejacket was horrified to see the four gold stripes of a captain.

"I beg your pardon, sir," he said hastily, saluting. "I thought you were . . ."

"That's all right, son," smiled the captain. "Just thank God I wasn't an ensign."

—Skyscrapers.

Welcome

M/Sgt.—"Does your wife know you're bringing me home for dinner?"

Pfc.—"Does she know it? We argued about it for half an hour this morning!"

—Wingspread.

Knowledgeable Gent

"Last night I said to my wife, 'Let's go for a drive.' In ten minutes she was ready, and we started across the river. Well, do you know what? The car ran off the bridge and sank in the river, but a big dog dived in and rescued us. Then he went up on the highway and barked for help. . . . What are you grinning about? Don't you believe me?"

"Nope—not the part about your wife being ready in ten minutes!"

—Beaumont News.

Sad Sack

A GI was returning from town, having had a haircut when he met his captain carrying golf clubs. "If you're returning to camp, Jones," he said, "would you mind putting these clubs in my office for me?"

"Certainly, sir," answered Jones, slinging them over his shoulder. A little nearer camp he met the colonel.

"Good morning sir," said Jones saluting smartly.

"Morning, Jones," answered the colonel genially. "Been for a round of golf?"

"Oh, no, sir; I've been having a haircut."

"Fourteen days for insolence!" bawled the colonel.

In The Journal

One Year Ago

The first training jump at "Exercise Snowdrop," the AGF winter operation being conducted at Pine Camp, N. Y., had participating in it more than 40 paratroopers of the 505th Airborne Battalion Combat Team. Each man carried equipment, including rations for 72 hours, weapons, ammunition, changes of clothing, bedding, and toilet articles, making his average weight over 300 pounds.

10 Years Ago

The battle efficiency of the United States Fleet is believed to compare favorably with that of the other major powers. Although our naval policy is and should be defensive it is imperative in the event that war is forced upon us to limit damage from the enemy to a minimum and to bring the enemy to terms as quickly as possible. The Fleet has been zealous in attaining such a condition of material and training that it may take the offensive at once and thereby keep an enemy away from our shores. (Adm. Leahy, CNO.)

25 Years Ago

The Secretary of War has approved the project submitted by the Chief of Air Service to send a flight of four or five Army airplanes around the world to demonstrate the feasibility with which aerial communication may be established between the various continents and to obtain desired information concerning the operation of present type aircraft in various climates of the world.

50 Years Ago

The value of music to the weary soldier is so well recognized that no one will be surprised at the Adjutant General's assertion that "music has become necessary to the health and well-being of the soldier." We are glad to see that he recommends that employment of musicians in regimental bands at regular and suitable pay and an increase in numbers to at least thirty men in each band.

80 Years Ago

Among the evils we hope to see corrected during the administration of General Grant as President, are those resulting to the Army from the crude condition of our military laws and the irregularity of practice and punishments under the laws.

Medical Training Course

Training courses ranging in length from 5 months to a year and given in specified civilian institutions during the fiscal year 1950 are now being offered to qualified Regular Army personnel, according to Maj. Gen. Raymond W. Bliss, the Army Surgeon General. A development of the Medical Department's Career Guidance Plan, evolved some two years ago, this new program provides courses for officers of (the Medical Corps, the Dental Corps, the Veterinary Corps, the Nurse Corps, the Medical Service Corps,) and all three sections of the Women's Medical Specialist Corps.

The subjects include most of the medical and allied science fields at leading universities, colleges, hospitals and foundations. It is the stated intention of the Surgeon General's Office to train personnel whose records and aptitudes show them best qualified to draw the maximum benefits from advanced study. Applications for training are to be forwarded to the Surgeon General's Office, prior to 1 Feb. 1949.

The program, tentatively established in twenty-five civilian institutions, has a twofold aim: to insure advancement in their respective specialties to each of the officers selected, and to integrate the best of civilian medicine with military medicine. Detailed information and instructions for applicants are set forth in SGO circular 134, dated 16 Nov. 1948.

Medical Procurement Program

Confronted with a critical shortage of professional personnel, the Army Medical Department has reemphasized that health standards "will not be compromised under any circumstances."

To meet this pledge, the Medical Department needs the services of hundreds of doctors, dentists, nurses, veterinarians and allied specialists. Therefore, in order to spur procurement, a joint program has been devised in coordination with several national scientific organizations.

The new program calls for the establishment of a Professional Manpower Committee for each local Military Manpower Committee throughout the country.

This Professional Manpower Committee is to be jointly headed by an outstanding local physician or surgeon and dentist. Members of the Committee would act as local spokesmen for the Army Medical Department and for their respective professions in contacts with students, interns, residents and professional people engaged in practice.

Committee membership probably will be restricted to eight or 10 persons, prominent in such fields as medicine, dentistry, nursing, pharmacy, psychology, psychiatry, nutrition and industrial hygiene.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Foreign Affairs—A broad outline of our foreign policies for the next few months will likely result from the series of conferences during the week between the President and Secretary of State George C. Marshall, who returned from Paris for this purpose. Some announcement of the decisions reached may be included in the President's State of the Union message to Congress early in January.

Of most immediate concern to the President and to the incoming Congress are the critical situations in China and Germany. The recent gains of the Communist forces in China may require a reconsideration of many aspects of our future course in the Orient. The difficulties in Germany stem largely from the illegal blockade imposed by Russia on the western sectors of Berlin. There is still some hope that action by the Security Council of the United Nations may open the way to a solution of this question.

The military position of the Chinese government continues to deteriorate. After claiming an overwhelming victory over the Communists in the Suchow area the nationalist leaders now concede that their success was local and temporary. Red reinforcements have arrived in the battle area and are again threatening the gateway to the Yangtze Valley. Farther north in a new drive the Reds have captured Paoting and are reported closing in on Peiping, the loss of which would be a tremendous blow to nationalist morale.

Former United States Senator D. Worth Clark, who has just returned from the Orient, declares that China will need tremendous assistance from this country to be able to stop the onrush of the Communists. He states that a billion dollars in military equipment and other supplies will be needed immediately, and that subsequent aid amounting to 600 millions annually will be required until a stable government and a stable currency are established in China. There is general agreement that aid to China to be effective must include a large military mission to instruct Chinese troops in the use of American planes, weapons and other equipment, and to advise Chinese commanders on tactical problems. There will be an understandable reluctance on the part of the new Congress to authorize assistance on any such scale.

Dependents of military personnel and other Americans in China are being evacuated by sea and air as rapidly as possible. Three Naval transports have gone to Shanghai and Tsingtao to assist in the movement. Some 1,200 Marines have been sent from Guam to Tsingtao to augment the present Marine garrison of 3,600 at that port. They will assist in the evacuation of American civilians, at least 1,000 of whom are expected to leave China through Tsingtao. It is expected that nearly all of the more than 4,000 American citizens in China will leave in the immediate future.

In Paris the so-called neutral members of the Security Council of the United Nations, under the leadership of Argentina, are continuing their efforts to relieve the impasse in the Berlin dispute. The western powers and Russia have been asked for their views concerning the currency problem in Berlin in the hope that some settlement can be effected whereby there will be a simultaneous lifting of the Soviet blockade and adoption of a Russian currency, under appropriate four-power control.

The usual November fogs have interfered somewhat with the operation of the Allied airlift, but in clear weather nearly 6,000 tons of supplies reach the beleaguered sectors by air each day. The reserve stockpile of food is growing and the amount of available fuel will prevent freezing, but will be inadequate for normal industrial needs.

The Security Council has before it the Palestine question which still seems far from solution. United States Delegate Philip Jessup indicated that this country still favors the original partition boundaries, rather than those suggested by the late Count Folke Bernadotte. This would give the disputed Negeb Desert to Israel. The importance of this area has been enhanced by the reported discovery of oil.

Deep concern is felt by the international community over the serious illness of King George of England, which has forced him to cancel a state journey to Australia and New Zealand. Physicians have announced that the monarch is suffering from an inadequate blood supply in the right leg. The nature of the illness will necessitate a prolonged rest.

In France the government scored a decisive victory over the Communists by suppressing an incipient dock strike. A Red-inspired nation-wide strike of dock workers had been called for this week, apparently for the purpose of interrupting the flow of Marshall Plan goods into the republic. The prompt use of troops to suppress disorders resulted in an indefinite postponement of the strike. This success of the Queuille government won for it a two-to-one parliamentary vote of confidence.

The Belgian government of Paul-Henri Spaak has resigned. The inability of the coalition regime of Socialists and Catholics to agree on domestic issues occasioned the resignation. Former Finance Minister Gaston Eyskens of the Catholic party has been designated to form a new cabinet.

In Greece the newly-formed Sophoulis government secured a vote of confidence by a narrow margin of two ballots. By the adjournment of parliament the regime was apparently assured of remaining in power until 1 February. However, on Wednesday the aged premier suffered a heart attack and this threatened to precipitate a new cabinet crisis.

As expected the Spanish municipal elections, the first held in years, resulted in a sweeping victory for the Franco partisans, who elected 82 per cent of their candidates. More than 70 per cent of the qualified electors voted, despite the fact that the Communists boycotted the elections.

General Douglas MacArthur has upheld the sentences of former Premier Tojo and other Japanese war leaders, convicted of war crimes by an international tribunal. Tojo and half a dozen others will suffer the death penalty and a considerable number of other leaders will be imprisoned for long terms.

Air Judge Advocate—Col. Bert E. Johnson, Judge Advocate of the Air Defense Command since its establishment in March, 1946, reported to Washington, 21 Nov., for a new assignment with the Office of The Judge Advocate General, USAF.

A former Tulsa, Oklahoma, Judge, Colonel Johnson served 38 months overseas in the China-Burma-India Theater and holds the distinction of being the last United States Judge for China, having been appointed Special Judge for the U. S. Court there by the late President Roosevelt in December, 1942. He entered military service in January, 1942.

Early in January, 1944, Colonel Johnson became The Judge Advocate of the Fourteenth Air Force at Kuming, China. Returning to the States, he was assigned Judge Advocate of the First Air Force then established at Mitchel Air Force Base,

New York. He was assigned Judge Advocate of the Air Defense Command upon its organization at Mitchel Air Force Base on 27 March 1946. His brother, Lt. Comdr. Dwight L. Johnson, was Professor of Navigation, at the U. S. Naval Academy, for the past two years and is now attending the Naval War College at Newport, R. I.

Finance Department—Col. Florio J. Stagliano, former New York Finance Officer, United States Army, Brooklyn, N. Y., has been assigned to First Army, and will replace Col. R. A. Koch as Chief of the Finance Section, it has been announced by General Courtney H. Hodges, Commanding First Army. Colonel Koch has been transferred to Atlanta, Ga., where he has been appointed Third Army Finance Officer.

National Guard—Maj. Gen. Kenneth F. Cramer, Chief, National Guard Bureau, addressed the National Guard Association Conference at St. Paul, Minn., held on 20 and 21 Nov. Maj. Gen. George E. Leach is President of the Association.

Some 400 officers of the Minnesota National Guard came to St. Paul from all corners of the State for the conference. In addition to General Cramer, they heard reports from Maj. Gen. E. A. Walsh, The Adjutant General of Minnesota and President of the National Guard Association of the United States, Maj. Gen. John P. Lucas, Deputy Commander, Fifth Army, Brig. Gen. Harry Johnson, Vice Commander, Tenth Air Force, and Col. William H. Abendroth, Resident Member of the Joint General Staff Committee, Washington, D. C., a committee that reports directly to the Chief of Staff of the Army.

Maj. Gen. Clifford R. Powell, commander of the New Jersey National Guard since 1 Aug. 1947, has been removed from his command and placed on the inactive list "at his own request." General Powell's withdrawal followed his involvement as an attorney in proceedings concerning sale of two bridges in New Jersey. In announcing General Powell's removal, Governor Alfred E. Driscoll said "the fine record of the National Guard in the reorganization period since World War II and in field training should be underscored and not overlooked."

Army Chaplain Corps—Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Henry Tavel, Assistant, Personnel Division, and Chaplain (Maj.) John R. Strevig, Officer in Charge, Statistics and Reports Division, represented the Office, Chief of Chaplains at the Second Annual Meeting of the Arlington, Va., Round Table, National Conference of Christians and Jews, Arlington Jewish Center, 18 Nov. Chaplains Tavel and Strevig spoke on Democracy through Understanding.

Recent visitors to the Office, Chief of Chaplains, included: Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Arthur Carl Plepkorn, The Chaplain School, Carlisle Barracks, Pa.; Chaplain (Capt.) Herbert G. Null, General Depot, Columbus, Ohio; Bishop William R. Arnold, Military Ordinariate, New York (former Chief of Chaplains); and Chaplain (Maj.) Robert J. Sherry, The Chaplain School, Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

On 21 Nov. the Reverend Kenneth L. Ahl, former chaplain, Army of the United States, was installed as Executive Secretary, Armed Forces Commission of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, 736 Jackson Place, N.W., Washington, D. C. The Service took place at Christ Lutheran Church. Chaplain (Col.) Martin C. Poch, Executive Officer, represented the Office, Chief of Chaplains, at the ceremony.

MATS—Secretary of Defense James Forrestal has announced that at the end of the first four months of operation the Military Air Transport Service produced 54 per cent more airlift than was accomplished by the Naval and Air Force components in their best pre-merger month. This was achieved with a two per cent increase in transport C-54's, a four per cent increase in transport personnel and a slight decrease in total MATS personnel.

The Secretary's statement came on the heels of published newspaper reports which maintained that no economies were being realized as a result of the merger of the Air Transport Command and the Naval Air Transport Service.

The mainstay of the transport fleet at present and before the merger is the C-54. In their best month before the 1 June merger, NATS and the ATC had a maximum of 196 C-54's available for transport operations. With these C-54's the pre-merger components produced 23,600,000 ton miles of airlift in their best month (April, 1948).

MATS in August, using seven fewer C-54's made available 29,750,000 ton miles of airlift—an increase of 26 per cent. In September, with 200 C-54's, the total airlift provided was 36,290,000 ton miles—an increase of 54 per cent over the best pre-merger month. (The ton mile total is the number of tons flown a distance of one mile.)

This was accomplished largely by utilizing three crews for each C-54 used in Operation Vittles. Another factor was increased efficiency resulting from central planning and uninhibited use of Naval and Air Force personnel under unified command.

Signal Reserve Units—Approximately a third of the reserve units contemplated by the Signal Corps under the Army-industry affiliation program that began last year have been activated, according to the Office of the Chief Signal Officer. Announcement also was made of eight recently activated units, including the 490th Signal Radio Relay Company, sponsored by RCA Communications, Inc., San Francisco, Calif.

New Reserve Policy—In another step to increase interest of its Reserve officers, the Army has authorized area commanders to organize any number of any type training unit below the level of a corps or similar staff, provided personnel cannot be assigned to a T/O&E or T/D unit already authorized.

Enlisted reservists can also be assigned to these training units, the Army said. The Army added, however, that continuing efforts should be made to transfer personnel without mobilization assignments to required T/O&E or T/D units, particularly those in the 18-25 Division Striking Force.

Presumably, the training units will permit placement of many officers of both company and field grades for whom there are no vacancies in appropriate ranks in previously authorized units.

Chemical Corps—Recent assignments of military personnel to the Technical Command, Army Chemical Center, Md., include: Maj. W. Dick, formerly on the staff of the Commanding Officer, San Jose Project, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, assigned as Chief, Ground Force Munitions Branch, Munitions Division, Capt. Chester Dombrowski, formerly Chief, Chemical Test Branch, San Jose Project, Virgin Islands assigned to Chemical Test Branch, Test Division; Capt. Fred L. Villers, recently returned to active duty, assigned to Chief's Office, Protective Division; and 1st Lt. Clyde L. Friar, formerly Executive Officer, Chemical General Service Co., at Ascom City, Korea, assigned to Air Force Munitions Branch, Munitions Division.

National Security Resources Board—Appointment of Captain Granville Conway, for many years a government administrator of maritime activities, as Director of the Office of Transportation and Storage of the National Security Resources Board, has been announced by Chairman Arthur M. Hill. During World War II, Captain Conway was named deputy administrator of the War Shipping Administration, later relieving Adm. E. S. Land as administrator. As a shipping expert, he was an associate member of the Joint Military Transportation Committee of the Combined Chiefs of Staff.

Deputy director of the Office will be Adm. E. J. Moran, president of the Moran Towing and Transportation Company of New York and a naval officer in both world wars.

Uniforms at Soviet Functions—Army officials said this week that the prohibition of the wearing of the uniform in a Communist-sponsored demonstration or activity "of any nature" does not extend to official functions at the Soviet Embassy. The Army said that the uniform order does not extend to activities of a foreign government. The regulation was formulated to prevent the wearing of uniforms in Communist-sponsored parades and demonstrations in the United States.

Quartermaster Corps—Col. William E. Goe will retire 30 Nov. with more than 31 years of service. Col. Raymond M. Barton has been relieved as a member of GSC and from duty with the Department of the Navy and assigned to the Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Army.

Col. Charlie A. Valverde who is now Post Quartermaster at Ft. Leavenworth is scheduled for assignment to the European Command in February, 1949.

Col. Thad A. Broom who has been Chief, Military Personnel Branch, Personnel and Training Division, OQMG, is assigned to the U. S. Forces, Antilles Department, Puerto Rico, effective in January. Lt. Col. Lewis D. Morgan is the new Chief, Military Personnel Branch.

Army Institute of Pathology—Maj. Colin F. Vorder Bruegge, MC, has joined the staff of the Army Institute of Pathology and has been assigned as special assistant to the Director. Maj. Vorder Bruegge served as Chief of the Laboratory Service of the 182d, 166th, and 177th General Hospitals during the war and as Commanding Officer of the 7th Medical Laboratory in Germany and Chief of Preventive Medicine, District Surgeon's Office, Berlin, during the occupation. Major Vorder Bruegge joins this organization from the Army Medical Center, Washington, D. C.

Dr. F. S. Ashburn, Mt. Alto Veterans' Administration Hospital, Washington, D. C., reported to the Army Institute of Pathology for a period of study and research on bronchiectasis and its relationship to so-called atypical pneumonia.

Army Nurse Corps—Maj. Mildred I. Clark, Clarkton, N. C., Chief Nurse Headquarters XXIV Corps and Director of Nurses for USAFIK since March 1947, has arrived in Tokyo to assume her duties as Nursing Consultant for FEC, Medical Section, GHQ. She replaces Lt. Col. Rosalie D. Colhoun who has returned to the United States for reassignment.

Commissioned a second lieutenant in the Regular Army in March 1938, Major Clark served at Ft. Bragg, N. C., and Ft. Leavenworth, Kans., prior to becoming Chief Nurse at North Sector General Hospital, Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, where she was on duty at the time of the bombing of Pearl Harbor. Returning to the United States in 1943, she served as Chief Nurse at Ashburn General Hospital, McKinney, Texas; Brook General Hospital, Ft. Sam Houston, Texas; and Cushing General Hospital, Framingham, Mass. Major Clark is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Clark of Clarkton, N. C.

Army Medical Department—Army medical authorities in Japan are conducting detailed laboratory studies to determine future preventive and control measures of the Scrub Typhus or mite-borne typhus fever which struck about 20 soldiers of the 25th Infantry Division in a maneuver area near Gotemba, Shizuoka, during September and October.

Lt. Col. Arthur P. Long, Preventive Medicine Consultant, Medical Section, GHQ, stated, "The reported illnesses are of only moderate severity and no cases are considered to be critical." He added, "Detailed epidemiological and entomological and other laboratory studies are under way, and from them we hope to gather valuable data for use in future application of preventive and control measures."

The typhus vaccine currently being administered to Allied personnel is designed as a protection against epidemic or louse-borne Typhus fever and has no immunizing effect on Scrub Typhus. At the present time there is no known vaccine which does offer protection against Scrub Typhus.

Naval Ordnance—A 24-inch test gun, largest known gun of its type, has been placed in operation at the Naval Proving Ground, Dahlgren, Va., to test bombs and guided missile warheads and their fuzes.

The new gun will shoot bombs and warheads as heavy as 2,000 pounds against armor plate and concrete targets at supersonic velocities. The effect of the impacts on the missiles and their components will be measured and analyzed, permitting the Armed Forces to expand their research and development work in the field of ordnance testing.

The gun-firing test for development of bombs and fuzes has been used for many years.

The gun is basically the sawed-off and otherwise altered barrel of a standard 16-inch gun, which had been damaged in combat during World War II. Originally the gun was mounted in the number one turret of the battleship South Dakota, which received a direct hit from a Japanese 500-pound bomb during the battle of Santa Cruz, 26 Oct. 1942.

After the war, the Navy Bureau of Ordnance prepared plans to salvage the gun for its present use. Funds for the modification were provided by the Office of the Chief of Ordnance, Department of the Army, and the work was performed at the Army's Watervliet Arsenal, Watervliet, N. Y.

Medical Procurement Program—A vigorous public information program will be undertaken during the next six months, officials in the Office of the Army Surgeon General report. It is planned to distribute 2,000,000 pieces of literature and to release 50,000 individual radio messages. Additionally, at least 40,000 releases will be placed in newspapers, magazines and technical journals.

The Army needs thousands of doctors, dentists and veterinarians to meet needs of the expanded Army.

Utilize Japanese Nurses—The Army is employing 200 licensed Japanese nurses to help meet the serious Nurse Corps personnel shortage at Army hospitals in Japan. The Japanese do not perform duties of graduate registered nurses but assist with less technical duties. Success of this program has resulted in formulation of plans to train nurse assistants in the Philippine Islands and at Guam.

Air National Guard—Maj. Gen. Kenneth F. Cramer, Chief of the National Guard Bureau, has announced that the 71st Fighter Wing and the 86th Fighter Wing have become the fourth and fifth Wings of the Air National Guard to be completely organized.

With headquarters at St. Louis, the 71st Wing includes the States of Iowa, Missouri, Minnesota, North and South Dakota and is commanded by Brig. Gen. Winston W. Kratz who began organizing the Wing in 1946. The Wing consists of three Fighter Groups, seven Fighter Squadrons, one Light Bombardment Squadron and their supporting units with a total current strength of approximately 3,100 officers and men.

The 86th Wing which includes Colorado, Wyoming, Nebraska and Kansas is commanded by Col. Joseph C. Moffitt with headquarters at Denver. It consists of one Fighter Group, four Fighter Squadrons and supporting units, with a strength of approximately 1,875 officers and men.

Army Field Forces—General Jacob L. Devers, Chief, Army Field Forces, participated in a one-day training demonstration cruise aboard the Naval Submarine USS Flying Fish, on 22 Nov. The following officers of AFF accompanied General Devers on the cruise through the Virginia Capes: Capt. R. Bolton, USN, Naval Liaison Officer, OCAFF; Col. Hobart Hewett, Col. Donald F. Hall, Col. John E. Wood, Col. Wendell H. Langdon, Col. Joseph G. Cocke, Col. Russell G. Barkalow, Col. Philip C. Wehle, Col. Hugh W. Stevenson, Col. John W. Hammond, Lt. Col. John H. Kochevar, Lt. Col. John F. P. Hill and Maj. William H. Witt.

Maj. Gen. Doyle O. Hickey, Assistant Chief for Developments, witnessed the maiden flight trials of a new cargo plane at the Chase Aircraft Company, West Trenton, New Jersey, on 18 Nov. He was accompanied by Maj. David G. Cogswell, Developments Section.

The following AFF officers attended a marine propulsion demonstration at Fort Eustis, Va., on 23 Nov. Captain Bolton, USN, Naval Liaison Officer, OCAFF; Col. David H. Blakelock, Transportation Officer; and Col. W. D. Smith, Lt. Col. A. W. Betts and Maj. C. A. Bird, all of the Engineer Section.

Transportation Corps—Maj. Gen. James A. Lester, Commanding General, San Francisco Port of Embarkation, has presented awards for outstanding achievement in motor safety to the 39th TC Truck Company of Camp Stoneman and the 43d TC Truck Company of Oakland Army Base. The 39th, commanded by Capt. John J. Haskin, completed its sixth consecutive accidentless month on 30 Sept. The 43d, led by Capt. Robert L. Tarber, completed three months' operations on the same date without a single accident.

The former Inspector General of the Seattle Port of Embarkation, Lt. Col. Milton W. Witt, was appointed Adjutant. He replaced Maj. Harriet N. Moses, who became Administrative Officer, Personnel Division. At Fort Lawton Maj. Sam F. Biafore, Director of Personnel, became Post Adjutant as additional duty, replacing Capt. Patrick M. Roberto who now is the Post Officers' Club Officer.

Navy Dental Corps—As part of the Dental Corps Postgraduate Training Program, Comdr. Daniel E. La Mothe has been authorized to attend a course in Applied Anatomy of the Head and Neck at Tufts College Dental School from 13 Jan. to 17 Feb. 1949. Comdrs. Arthur R. Frechette and Robert A. Colby of the Naval Dental School faculty have been selected to attend the 2 weeks' special warfare course commencing 28 Nov. at Edgewood Arsenal.

Mobile Dental Unit Number 2 completed its task at the University of Nebraska on 15 Nov. and has reported to the Naval Ammunition Depot at Hastings, Nebraska. Lt. Comdr. J. T. Ashwell, dental officer in command of the unit, expects to furnish dental service to naval activities in the vicinity of Lawrence, Kansas City, Columbus, St. Louis, and Urbana before returning to Ninth Naval District Headquarters about 15 April 1949.

Bureau of Medicine and Surgery—The Surgeon General, Rear Adm. C. A. Swanson and Rear Adm. Bertram Groesbeck, Assistant Chief of Bureau for Aviation and Operational Medicine, will leave for Philadelphia, Pa. on 1 Dec. to attend the Dedication Ceremonies of the new Aeronautical Medical Equipment Laboratory. They will be accompanied by Capt. H. G. Shepler, Director, Aviation Medicine Division and Capt. C. A. Shilling, Director of Medical Science Division of Office of Naval Research.

Comdr. Thomas J. Canty, MC, USN, was recently commended to the Surgeon General by the Western Orthopedic Association. Doctor Canty who is in charge of the Amputation Center at the U. S. Naval Hospital, Mare Island, Calif., directed the preparation of the Navy's exhibit at the Association's recent meeting.

Examinations for the selection of candidates for appointment to the grade of Lieutenant (Junior Grade) in the Medical Corps of the Navy will be held at Naval Hospitals in continental United States during the period 24-28 Jan. 1949.

Bureau of Aeronautics—Student officers attending the Naval Postgraduate School at Annapolis assembled in the main auditorium of the School 23 Nov. to hear a special lecture by Comdr. C. W. Stirling, USN, Bureau of Aeronautics, Navy Department, on the topic, "Functions of Design Elements in the Bureau of Aeronautics." The lecture was the seventh in a series of ten special lectures to be given by officer personnel from the Bureau of Aeronautics for the students of the Postgraduate School.

Special Services—Maj. Gen. Russel B. Reynolds, Chief of Special Services, Department of the Army, was the principal speaker at the Touchdown Club's weekly luncheon, Monday, 22 Nov. He told the members about the Army's world-wide recreational sports program for United States soldiers. Maj. Thomas Cassidy, Chief of the Special Services Sports Branch, was a guest at the meeting.

Col. W. A. Bishop, Chief of Army Recreational Service, has returned from TDY visiting First Army Headquarters and installations. Colonel Bishop and Major Cassidy attended the First Army Special Services Conference, Wednesday, 10 Nov.

New Army and Air Force Warrant Officers

THE following are the complete lists of Army and Air Force warrant officer appointments.

The lists give the name of the newly selected warrant officer, his present rank, and his specialist designation. (The specialty numbers run from 901 to 977, but in the listings the first numeral "9" is omitted for easy reading.) The table on this page provides the key for the warrant specialist classifications.

Letter to the Editor

Proposed Relative List

Editor, ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL:

The letter of the Lt. Col., FA, USA, in the 13 Nov. issue was rather interesting. Another fact of interest would have been his age and permanent rank. We quote, in part:

"... hundreds and thousands of less capable newly appointed Regular Officers ..."
"... Subordinate them to too great a number of officers who are less capable as evidenced by their positions of responsibility they held during World War II ..."
"... picture themselves further subordinated ... to a great number of officers who rate far below them in ability ..."

Did he mean that this was his personal opinion? So far as I can learn only pre-war Regulars planned for and selected the less capable newly appointed Regulars and certainly they decided the major points of the present promotion law. Likewise no integrated officer has so far been a member of a selection board. Thus it would seem that someone felt that the integrated officer had in most cases proved his ability and in many cases had a fine record before the war, many being successful in business as well as in the military. Integrated officers have been given no advantage since they became Regulars.

A great majority of the integrated officers, according to official records, were between 26 and 35. Since the 25,667 selected were picked from 140,000, it would seem that the Army was fairly selective but even so more than 2,000 evidently felt qualified to do better in civilian life as they turned the offer down after they were nominated.

It would hardly seem that in America, the 11,322 selected to be officers in the Regular Army would be less capable or rate far below other officers of a similar age who happened to have started their professional career prior to the war. Particularly when the majority of the integrated officers are ranked on the permanent list in most cases only above those officers who are 24 or younger and therefore have at the most three or four years between them and Academy graduation.

In fact, the official figures show that only 1,158 were integrated as majors; 3,627 as captains; 5,794 as lieutenants, and 745 as second lieutenants.

As of January 1948 there were 21,102 Regular Army officers, of whom 11,322 were integrated. But there were no integrated officers holding the permanent rank of major* or brigadier general and of the 1,893 permanent colonels on 1 Aug. 1948 (date of promotion list) there were only seven integrated officers. Thus of the 2,073 top ranking Regulars only seven were other than pre-war. There is only one integrated officer holding temporary rank as a general officer—and he is in the Air Force. Of the remaining 7,713 pre-war officers many are in the Chaplain Corps, Medical Corps, Dental Corps, Veterinary Corps and Medical Service Corps where there still is a shortage of qualified personnel and into which 1,700 officers, or 15 per cent of the total, were integrated.

The integrated officer, on the other hand, who was selected from among 140,000 and who by virtue of having his rank start from age 25, is already two years behind his contemporary, feels that relative rank should conform in general to the permanent list. He sees no reason why a youngster a few years out of the Academy should draw pay as a Lt. Col. just because he happened to be on the ground floor early in the war and in a position to secure rapid temporary promotion.

An example is a Lt. Col. near the end of the permanent captains list who was promoted from 2nd Lt. to his silver leaf in less than 36 months and has held that rank now for almost four years. In the pre-war Army the Lt. Col. means for this officer would not yet be a permanent captain let alone a field grade officer when three years out of the Academy. Yet it is reported that there are 1,247 permanent captains who draw the pay of a Lt. Col., setup for an officer with 21 years of service.

There is no desire on the part of the writer to take away any of the credit any officer is entitled to from World War

*Two permanent major generals were taken in by special act of Congress.

II but for those who happened to be in, when the citizen-soldier came along to help them win, to classify integrated officers as did this Lt. Col., in his letter, is to overlook the facts. It is interesting and heartening to know that the old-heads, many of whom came up the hard way and, like Pershing, didn't get to be a major until they were in their forties, have devised a plan and promotion setup which did and will select men on their merit and will allow them to get to the top on the same basis.

It must be sad for those who were in the small pre-war clique to have taken from them the promotion by seniority (without much regard to ability and no satisfactory law for the elimination of unfit officers) and to have many capable officers competing with them for future leadership. Regardless of the several opinions it should make for a better officer corps and may the best men win. Most of the integrated officers, instead of talking about others being less capable, are concentrating on winning over what they consider to be competition that merits their best efforts, regardless of what they may actually think of some pre-war Regulars.

It is only human for pre-war Regulars to want to hold on to the rank and income they have, but for anyone to claim that more than half the Regular Officers Corps is less capable and rates far below the pre-war Regulars is to take a view that would not be subscribed to by unprejudiced personnel authorities. The Officer Corps is probably at a higher level, as a whole, today than it has ever been.

Major, Inf., USA.

Saipan Controversy

The Marine Corps this week released copies of thirteen one-time secret and top-secret documents dealing with the controversial Saipan campaign in which the Army's Maj. Gen. Ralph C. Smith was relieved of command of the 27th Infantry Division by Marine Lt. Gen. Holland M. (Howling Mad) Smith.

The papers, termed "key documents" by the Marine Corps, were selected from a group of records on the subject totaling approximately one cubic yard in bulk. They were released in accordance with instructions from the Secretary of the Navy. According to the Marine Corps, the balance of the records will be made public as soon as they can be declassified and reproduced.

All Army records had previously been shown to the press by Capt. Edmund G. Love, Historian of the 27th Infantry.

The Marine Corps papers included a wire-recording, memorandum, letters, reports and endorsements initiated by both Smiths, Army Maj. Gen. Sanderford Jarman, Vice Adm. R. K. Turner, Admiral R. A. Spruance, Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, and General of the Army George C. Marshall.

First of the documents, a transcript of a wire-recording made by Army General Smith at Saipan for radio broadcast on the day after the capture of Isley Field, points out "the very cordial feeling" existing between the Marines and the Army.

Chief among the other documents are three communications, written by General Jarman, senior Army commander present, in which he summarizes the events leading up to the relief of Ralph Smith, his own subsequent command of the 27th Division, and the state of affairs on Saipan on 30 June 1944. In these documents, General Jarman supports, for the most part, statements made by Marine General Smith regarding the "lack of aggressiveness" of the 27th Division.

Release of the Jarman documents by the Marine Corps gave rise to further controversy. The Army declared that publication of the documents by the Marine Corps had not been cleared through the Army. Furthermore, the Army said, the Jarman papers had originally been introduced by Jarman before the Buckner Board which decided that Ralph Smith's relief "was not justified by fact."

candidates were being selected, the combat arms received only a limited number of warrant appointments.

However, no less an authority than Lt. Gen. Willard S. Paul, USA, Director, Personnel and Administration, emphasized this week that a comprehensive list of combat arms appointees will be compiled as soon as possible.

With regard to the present appointments, General Paul said "this marks the start of what we hope will be a fine capstone for our enlisted career program."

Brooke AMC Command Changes

Maj. Gen. Edward A. Noyes assumed command of Brooke Army Medical Center, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., 18 Nov.

General Noyes succeeded Maj. Gen. John M. Willis, who will retire 30 Nov. after 38 years service with the Army Medical Department.

General Noyes the new commander of the center, was appointed Assistant to The Surgeon General in 1946 for a four year period. In the same year he began his service as Chief Surgeon, European Theater, from which duty he came to the Center.

The post bade farewell to General Willis at a formal Retreat Parade 17 Nov. General Willis had commanded the Center since its activation in February, 1946.

General Willis reviewed more than 2500 troops from Medical Field Service School, Brooke General Hospital, the Post of Fort Sam Houston and Headquarters, Fourth Army.

In the reviewing stand with General Willis were General T. T. Handy, Commanding Fourth Army; General Noyes, new commander of the Center; Maj. Gen. A. D. Bruce, deputy commander, Fourth Army; Brig. Gen. Joseph I. Martin, commandant, Medical Field Service School; Brig. Gen. H. I. Hodes, Chief of Staff, Fourth Army; Brig. Gen. Paul H. Streit, commanding Brooke General Hospital; J. V. Collier, deputy Post commander; Col. E. F. Wallander, commanding the San Antonio General Depot; Col. Dwight M. Kuhns, commanding Fourth Army Area Medical Laboratory; and Lt. Col. G. B. Foote, commanding Central Dental Laboratory.

General Willis will go to Erie, Penn., where he has accepted a position as Superintendent of Hamot Hospital.

Born at King George Court House, Va., General Willis's 38 years' service began in 1910 when he was commissioned a first lieutenant in the Medical Corps Reserve following his graduation from George Washington University with the degree of Doctor of Medicine. His first assignment after graduation from the Army Medical School was to Ft. Sam Houston.

Advancing through grades to his present rank of Major General, he has served at various stations throughout the United States and in Mexico, the Philippine Islands, Puerto Rico and Hawaii. He served during the early war years as commanding officer of Camp Grant, Ill., from 1941-1943 and as Surgeon of the Ninth Service Command in 1943-44. As Chief Surgeon of the Pacific Ocean Area (later Middle Pacific Area), 1945-46, General Willis was in charge of the plans for and administration of medical support of all operations for the Army forces for the war in the middle Pacific.

Indebtedness to the Government

The Army and Air Force have issued the following statement with regard to liquidation of indebtedness to the government:

"Officers will be informed that requests for liquidation of indebtedness by monthly installment payments or deductions, forwarded to the Chief of Finance or Director of Finance, Comptroller, for approval by the Secretary of the Army or the Secretary of the Air Force, respectively, must conform to Department of the Army and Department of the Air Force policy, requiring liquidation within 12 months or sooner. Where an individual submits a request that will require a longer period than 12 months to satisfy the indebtedness, his request will be substantiated by a statement showing his monthly pay and allowances and all authorized deductions and outlining his financial ability to make payments on the indebtedness."

DA Meets Chest Quota

The Department of the Army was first of the large Federal government agencies in the District of Columbia area to fill its Community Chest campaign quota, Lieut. Gen. Raymond S. McLain, chairman of the department's drive, this week announced he had been informed by Vice Chairman Everett L. Butler.

The Department's contributions and pledges totaled $155,512.59 which is 112 per cent of the $137,940 quota set.

THE Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air and Mrs. John Nicholas Brown spent the Thanksgiving holiday in Newport with their sons, Nicholas and Carter, students at Groton, but will join the crowd in Philadelphia today for the game.

The Secretary of the Army and Mrs. Kenneth Royall have week-end guests at their apartment at the Mayflower, and today, like other Service folks, will board a special train for Philadelphia, and the Army and Navy game.

With them will be their guests, Mrs. Royall's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. A. Jones Yorke of Concord, N. C., and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Royall, Jr., of Durham, N. C.

Mrs. Royall attended the luncheon given for Mrs. Truman and daughter by the Women's National Press Club Monday.

From the Judge Advocate General's office quite a party went to the game. In the special train going to Philadelphia were Col. and Mrs. George W. Gardes with guests, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Carlos McAfee, Col. and Mrs. William H. Johnson, Maj. and Mrs. Wilmer N. Nelson, Maj. and Mrs. Hiram D. White, Maj. and Mrs. John W. Kimball, Maj. and Mrs. George F. Meyer, Maj. and Mrs. Andrew D. Kane, and Col. T. Ruby and guest.

The Assistant Secretary of the Air Force and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney entertained at dinner at their home in Georgetown Saturday evening, 20 Nov., having as guests the Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Garrison Norton, Assistant Secretary of the Air Force and Mrs. Eugene Zuckert, Col. and Mrs. Pierpont Morgan Hamilton and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Burden of New York, cousins of the host and week-end guests. Other guests came in later for a musical, among them the Secretary of the Army and Mrs. Kenneth Royall, the French Ambassador and Mme. Bonnet, the Nor-

Weddings and Engagements

REAR ADM. and Mrs. Charles Lees Brand announce the engagement of their daughter, Nacny Rowland, to Capt. Robert Neville Ginsburgh, USA, son of Co. A. Robert Ginsburgh, USAF, and Mrs. Ginsburgh, of Arlington, N. J.

Miss Brand attended Holton Arms and the Maret School in Washington. Captain Ginsburgh graduated from Phillips Academy, Andover, 1940, U. S. Military Academy, 1944, and Harvard School of Public Administration, 1948. During the war he served in the European Theater with 89th Division, and after V-J Day in Japan with General Headquarters. He is now an instructor at West Point.

The wedding will take place 29 Dec. in Washington.

Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Glen Clifford Jamison of Mitchell Air Force Base, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Judy, to Capt. Herman B. Caldwell, Jr., USAF, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Caldwell of Tallahassee, Ala.

Miss Jamison is a graduate of Woodrow Wilson High School in Washington and attended the University of Maryland, where she was a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Captain Caldwell attended the University of Alabama before entering the Air Force. His present assignment is Albrook Air Force Base, Panama Canal Zone.

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Elaine Stanford to 1st Lt. Walter Harold Root, Jr., Inf., took place at the chapel, Presidio of San Francisco, Calif., at eight in the evening of 5 Nov., Chaplain Brown officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory satin and a fingertip veil over a Juliet cap. The matron of honor was the brides sister-in-law to be, Mrs. Betty Root; the maid of honor was Miss Vera Cameron, daughter of the late Col. Evan D. Cameron; and the bridesmaid was Miss Gloria Scatena.

The best man was 1st Lt. James T. Root, brother of the bridegroom. The ushers were brother officers of the bridegroom from the Presidio.

The wedding reception was held at the officers' club at the Presidio. After the honeymoon the young couple will be at home at Apartment 3, 3033 Turk Street, San Francisco.

The bride is the daughter of Col. Leland H. Stanford of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Lorene D. Stanford of Dallas, Texas; and the bridegroom is the son of Col. and Mrs. Walter H. Root, retired, of Takoma, Wash.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gilbert Berry of Vienna, Va., of the engagement of their daughter, Jo Ann, to Lt. Orio Charles Paculli, Jr., USMC, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Paculli of Palo Alto, Calif. The wedding will take place the end of December.

Miss Berry attended Fairfax Hall Junior College and Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia at Fredericksburg. Lieutenant Paculli is a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy.

An impressive military wedding ceremony took place Saturday, 20 Nov., at the Ft. Myer Chapel, when Miss Teresa Ann Watters, daughter of Col. William Earl Watters, USA, and Mrs. Watters of Arlington, Va., became the bride of Lt. Donald Earl Estes, USMC, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Estes of Denver, Colo.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a gown of white satin with a trim of shoulder ornaments that had been on her grandmother's wedding dress. A Queen of Scots headdress studded with seed pearls held her fingertip veil, and she carried a white satin prayer book overlaid with white orchids.

Mrs. William G. Austin of San Antonio, Tex., was matron of honor for her sister, Kathryn Mary Austin, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

The bridesmaids were Miss Arlyne Porter of Princeton, W. Va., Miss Helen Snedeker of Quantico, Va., Miss Jane Hervey and Mrs. A. A. Lemeshewsky of Arlington, Va.

Best man was the bridegroom's father, and the ushers were a group of brother officers including Lieutenants Homer Pettit, Fred B. Chapman, Samuel Eddy, Lemuel Shapherd, Robert Doyle and Ernest Lee.

Ft. Myer Officers' Club was the setting for the wedding reception.

After a motor trip to Kentucky, Lieutenant and Mrs. Estes will be at home at Ft. Knox, where he has been ordered to duty. He has recently returned from two years' service on Guam.

St. Cornelius Chapel at Ft. Jay, Governors' Island, N. Y., was the scene, 5 Nov., of the wedding of Miss Katherine Crosby Mills to Mr. Henry Stewart Price, both of New York City. Chaplain (Maj.) Julian S. Ellenberg officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Brig. Gen. Gordon Young, Engineer Commissioner of the District of Columbia. A reception at the Governors' Island Officers' Club followed the ceremony.

The bride, daughter of the late Col. and Mrs. Stephen Crosby Mills, was born on Governors' Island. She is the granddaughter of the late General J. G. C. Lee. A research biologist associated with Presbyterian Medical Center in New York City, she is a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons and of Packer Collegiate Institute.

The bridegroom, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Henry Price of Brooklyn, is a well-known electrical engineer with Bell Research Laboratories in New York City. He is a graduate of Princeton, Class of 1916, and a member of the Tower Club.

The couple will make their home at 33 Washington Square, West, New York City.

Col. and Mrs. Stephen Smith Hamilton of Ft. George G. Meade, Md., announce the engagement of their daughter, Edith Frizell Hamilton, to Lt. Roy Lenton Liles, USA, son of Mrs. J. L. Woodyard of Bryan, Tex.

ORLANDO AIR FORCE BASE, FLA. One of the most colorful and delightful affairs of the early winter season, was the cocktail supper party given at the Officers' Club 7 Nov., at which Col. and Mrs. Howard H. Cloud were hosts to 150 guests. The candlelit supper tables were overlaid with point-de-Venice lace cloths and centerpieces were silver bowls with arrangements of yellow gladioli and fuchsias; carrying out the Air Corps colors of yellow and blue. The silver candelabra glowed with yellow tapers.

A feature of the evening was the dancing of hula numbers by Patty Cloud, daughter of the hosts. The talented young dancer learned hula dancing when she was with her parents in Honolulu, where Colonel Cloud was stationed at Hickam Field. The background for her dances were palm fronds and hibiscus, banked in front of the huge fireplace in the lounge. Patty is a senior at Orlando High School and has sent in her application for entrance to Florida State University, at Tallahassee, next fall.

"UNITED STATES AT WAR"

* A limited number of copies of the Army and Navy Journal's historic volumes, "United States At War" is still available. This series, the first volume of which was published 7 December 1942 with succeeding volumes each year until the War's end, forms a complete history of World War II in authoritative articles written by Military, Naval and civilian leaders actually in charge of the operations in the active theater and at home. Profusely illustrated they merit a place in every well balanced library.

A small number of each of the volumes is ready for distribution at $3.00 per copy in paper binding and $5.00 in cloth binding. (Copies of Volume I are available only in paper binding.)

turned to West Point as instructor in mathematics from 1904 to 1906, when he went to the Philippines as aid to Gen. A. L. Mills.

During the 1st World War, he was Chief of Operations Section, General Staff, 3rd Army Corps; and received the Distinguished Service Medal. On returning home in 1919 he reported at the General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas; graduating the following year. From there to the Army War College, Washington, D. C., as a student officer. After completing that course in 1921 he was assigned to the G-4 Section of the newly organized War Department General Staff, Washington, D. C., where he remained four years.

From 1922 until 1935 Col. Clark was in command of the 10th Field Artillery at Fort Lewis, Washington; and from 1935 to 1939 Chief of Staff of the 3rd Division at Fort Lewis.

Retiring on his own application after 40 years' service, he came to Carmel, California, October 1939. In January 1941 he was called back to duty and given command of the Presidio of Monterey; until his retirement for physical disability in 1943.

Col. Clark is survived by his widow Mrs. Louise Edwards Clark (daughter of the late Col. and Mrs. F. A. Edwards, USC) and daughter, Miss Louise Clark of Carmel, California; a brother, Dr. S. N. Clark of Jacksonville, Ill.; a sister, Mrs. J. G. Floyd of San Diego, Calif.

Private services were held 15 November and interment will be at Arlington National Cemetery, Va.

Brig. Gen. John Bushrod Wilson, USMC

Brig. Gen. John Bushrod Wilson, 53, USMC-Ret., Assistant Division Commander of the Third Marine Division at Iwo Jima, died 19 Nov. while hunting within the Camp Joseph H. Pendleton reservation, Oceanside, Calif.

General Wilson was retired as a colonel, 1 Dec. 1946 for physical disability, and was advanced to brigadier general upon retirement for having been specially commended for duty in combat.

He received a Legion of Merit for meritorious conduct at Guam and a Gold Star in lieu of a second award for his performance at Iwo Jima. He received a Gold Star in lieu of a third Legion of Merit for action in earlier operations against the enemy at Bougainville.

A native of Corvallis, Oregon, the late General Wilson was commissioned in the Marine Corps Reserve in June 1917 after graduation from Oregon Agricultural College. In August of that same year, he received a regular commission.

During World War II, General Wilson served in Cuba and later was on duty in China, the Philippine Islands, aboard ships of the Navy and at various continental Navy and Marine stations.

Among those surviving General Wilson are his widow, Mrs. Beatrice L. Wilson, 1872 La Jolla Rancho Road, La Jolla, Calif.; and two sons, Maj. James P. Wilson, USMC, Staff of the Commander, Amphibious Force, Atlantic Fleet and 1st Lt. John B. Wilson, Jr., Sixth Marines, First Marine Division.

Col. George C. Hollingsworth, USA-Ret.

Funeral services for Col. George C. Hollingsworth, USA-Ret., were held at the Edwards and Cummings Mortuary, Pasadena, Calif., 15 Nov.

Burial took place in the Fort Rosecrans National Cemetery, Point Loma, Calif., the following day. Full military honors were rendered. Among those attending the services

Colonel Hollingsworth who died in McCornack Army Hospital, Pasadena, on 11 Nov., was born in Graham, Tex., 18 June 1883. He was commissioned 15 Aug. 1917, at the First Officers' Training Camp, Leon Springs, Tex. He graduated from the Infantry School Basic Course in 1921, and was a graduate of the Command and General Staff School, Class of 1933.

Colonel Hollingsworth saw service in France during the First World War and was serving on the Alcan Highway when retired by operation of the law in 1943.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Grace W. Hollingsworth, 10436 Tennessee Avenue, Los Angeles 25, Calif.; his daughter, Mrs. J. W. Sinclair; grandson, John Sinclair, both of Shanghai, China; two brothers and three sisters, Howard and Heywood Hollingsworth, Mrs. R. E. Yeargin, Mrs. I. B. Loe, and Mrs. George W. Owens, respectively.

Maj. William Lawrence

Maj. William Lawrence, who died while a prisoner of war of the Japanese in May, 1942, was reinterred 26 Oct. at Arlington National Cemetery.

He enlisted at Philadelphia in July of 1911, joining Troop I, Third Cavalry, at Fort Sam Houston, Tex. He was graduated from the first Officers School at Fort Sam Houston in 1917, but in order to go overseas with the Third Cavalry did not accept his commission. He served in France with the Third Cavalry for 21 months and in July 1919 was sent to Fort Myer and made a Warrant Officer. In March of 1937 Major Lawrence was ordered to Fort Bliss, Tex., where he served until June 1940. He was then ordered to the Philippine Islands, and was commissioned a Captain in December 1941. He was promoted to Major in March 1942, while on Bataan.

Col. Herbert C. Gibner

Col. Herbert C. Gibner, USA-Ret., died 13 Nov. at Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco, Calif.

A graduate of the Yale Medical School, he entered the Army in 1905 and was retired in 1942, when he was recalled to duty immediately as Professor of Military Science and Tactics at the University of California Medical School.

Colonel Gibner also served as an instructor at the Command and General Staff School and at the War College. For four years he was in command of the Medical Field Service School at Carlisle, Pa.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Charlotte Bruce Gibner, 2435 Bay Street, San Francisco, a daughter, Charlotte Gibner Train, wife of Col. William F. Train, now

AF Ground Safety Program

Alarmed at a 49 per cent increase in the military injury rate since 1946, which is costing approximately $10,200,000 a year, General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force Chief of Staff, has ordered commanders to review continually ground safety measures.

General Vandenberg said that "an effective accident prevention program is essential to the conduct of the Air Force mission and requires the sustained interest and active support of commanders at all echelons." He noted that the cost of personnel injured and property damaged during this year as a result of ground accidents has averaged $850,000 per month.

To Destroy Last Jap Vessels

With only three more ex-Japanese naval vessels to be dismantled, the scheduled program to scrap 413 ships of the defunct Japanese Navy is nearing completion, Rear Adm. Russell S. Berkey, Commander Naval Forces Far East announced recently in Tokyo.

Largest of the three vessels remaining is an 887 ton high speed transport now in the Uruga dockyard below Yokosuka. The two others are a 770 ton destroyer in the Tokyo Bay and a 600 ton submarine in the vicinity of Eta Jima, near Kure.

Scrapping of these vessels is currently in process, and according to a Navy spokesman all work is expected to be completed by the first of the year.

Lump Sum Medical Pay

The Army and Air Force have announced that computation of lump sum payment for accrued leave may not include additional pay of $100 per month authorized for medical and dental officers for "each month of active service." It is explained that leave settled and compensated for under section 6 of Armed Force Leave Act of 1946 shall not be considered as active military service.

FINANCEFinancial Digest

The Department of Commerce has announced that the production of goods and services in the United States for the third quarter of 1948 reached the unprecedented high annual rate of $256 billions, six billions above that of the previous quarter, and eleven billions higher than the first quarter. Individual incomes after tax deductions were at the record high annual rate of $193.7 billions, five and a half billions above the preceding quarter. Expenditures for consumer goods were at a yearly rate of 178.5 billions, an indicated annual saving of more than fifteen billions.

Producers' Council, a national organization of building supply manufacturers, predicts new construction valued at more than eighteen billions in 1949. The Council reports that the output of most building material would be ample to sustain this rate of new construction, and also to provide for a seven billion dollar program of maintenance and repairs. The only doubtful item appears to be steel, the availability of which is largely dependent on the character and extent of defense expenditures. It is not anticipated that there will be any acute shortage of labor, though no surplus is expected.

A decline in department store sales, which has been rather general throughout the country is occasioning some concern. Most observers regard this falling off of retail trade as temporary, due in part to unfavorable shopping weather. With employment near its all-time peak and continued high personal incomes merchants still look for brisk holiday business.

MERCHANT MARINEMerchant Marine

Admiral W. W. Smith, Jr., chairman of the U. S. Maritime Commission, has revealed that the government will build two twenty-knot, 10,000 ton cargo ships as models for mass production in event of war. He said the ships will embody all latest developments in cargo vessels.

U. S. Maritime Commissioner Raymond McKeough has condemned Army operation of ships chartered from American commercial companies and declared that the Army makes no contribution to the development of the merchant marine on the "long-pull" basis through such operations. The Commissioner added that the Army should get out of the shipping business and leave it to the commercial operator under the American flag.

The privately-owned American merchant fleet increased by five war-built dry cargo vessels and one tanker transferred from the Maritime commission in October to a total of 1,208 vessels on 1 Nov., according to the latest monthly summary of the National Federation of American Shipping. No new ships were completed during October.

More foreign merchant ships entered New York harbor than American for the first time since the war in October, according to statistics released recently by Harry M. Durning, Collector of Customs. Foreign arrivals numbered 321 compared to 299 U. S. flag vessels totalling 1,334,752 and 1,416,740 net tons respectively. Clearances for October also indicated foreign vessels ahead of American with 343 foreign ships departing compared with 314 American totalling 1,379,872 and 1,464,114 tons respectively.

Chamber of Commerce Hits PXs

The Armed Services Committees of Congress were urged today by the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to investigate the operation of Army post exchanges and Navy ship's service stores.

The Board approved a report submitted by its Domestic Distribution Department Committee, headed by Mr. James W. Baker, president, Baker-Lawson & Ford, Shreveport, La., which set forth the following contentions:

"(1) Articles and services not properly classified as items of necessity and convenience are sold in exchange and service stores contrary to the intent of Congress.

"(2) Special order procedures (unlimited as to unit value in the case of the Navy and up to $300 in the case of the Army and the Air Force) permit the purchase of a wide range of merchandise not regularly stocked by service stores and exchanges and not properly classified as items of necessity and convenience. (The $300 limit applies to the cost price to the exchange.)

"(3) Large numbers of non-military personnel and other civilians acquire merchandise offered for sale in exchanges and service stores either directly or through friends and associates in the armed services in contravention of the intent of Congress and of military regulations.

"(4) Military service stores have refused to pay the 20 per cent retail excise tax on cosmetics, furs, jewelry and luggage. It is claimed by officials of the National Military Establishment that the government should not tax itself."

Obituaries

Weir, USAF; and a granddaughter, Beverly Weir. Also surviving are his father, Judge C. E. Weir of Indianapolis and a sister, Mrs. Cyril Cass of Hartford, Conn.

Maj. Gen. George C. Beach, jr.

In the Memorial Chapel at the Army Medical Center, to which he was so devoted, and in the presence of hundreds of those who loved him, funeral services for Maj. Gen. George Corwin Beach, jr., were held Saturday, 20 Nov.

From the chapel the funeral procession proceeded down Sixteenth Street in Washington to Arlington National Cemetery, where graveside services were held. An honor guard and firing party of the Ceremonial Company, Third Infantry Regiment, Ft. Myer, Va., rendered military honors.

The services were conducted by General Beach's close friend, Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Luther D. Miller, USA, Chief of Chaplains.

The honorary pallbearers, all of whom had been close to the General, were General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, who flew down from New York and returned immediately following the ceremonies; Lt. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, Maj. Gen. Edward F. Witsell, Maj. Gen. Albert W. Kenner, Maj. Gen. Edward S. Hughes, Maj. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, Maj. Gen. Shelley U. Marletta, Brig. Gen. George E. Armstrong, Col. William L. Killer, and Col. John C. O'Laughlin.

Maj. Gen. Raymond W. Bliss, The Surgeon General of the Army, and Mrs. Bliss, escorted Mrs. Beach at the chapel and to Arlington.

Army Medical Center personnel were represented at the funeral services by the Army Nurse Corps, Women's Medical Specialist Corps, Women's Army Corps, and Medical Corps officer and enlisted personnel.

The body lay in state Friday evening at the Memorial Chapel and Saturday morning prior to the services.

Even though he had been ill for several weeks, the death of General Beach came as a severe shock to his many friends throughout the Armed Services and the medical profession. The hundreds of messages that poured in attested to the high regard in which he was held. President Truman, who knew and admired the General from his visits to Walter Reed Hospital, expressed his feelings in a special message. Rear Adm. Clifford A. Swanson, (MC), USN, Surgeon General of the Navy, expressed the regrets of his Service. From many Army posts, particularly Ft. Sam Houston and San Antonio, where he had served many years, came many more messages.

Because the Eulogy written by the Chaplain John A. Dunn, chaplain of the Army Medical Center, expressed the deep affection in which he had been held, we are reprinting it here—an expression of ardent admiration in which the Publisher and the Staff of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL join.

Chaplain Dunn's Eulogy:
"Major General George C. Beach, almost three years ago came to the Army Medical Center as its Commanding General. Today he leaves us as the Commanding General, the Physician and, greatest of all, the universally mourned father of every Officer, Nurse, Enlisted Man and Woman, Patient and Civilian on the Post.

"General Beach had many virtues. His humility was contagious; his patience made the rest of us impatient; his kindness to those under him was never mistaken for laxity; his ability as a Physician and as an Army Officer has often been written into official reports. But his love for his fellow men is only written into the official records of the Great Divine Physician, where it will never be erased.

"Christian Charity is the greatest of the virtues and we sum up General Beach's life by this terse sentence: Any army officer can sign papers and therefore this was not enough; any physician, if he has the necessary skill, may prescribe medicine and perform surgery and therefore this was not enough. But only a few living men can, in addition to these things, instill in every one about him a love for his fellow men, a devotion to duty that knows no duty hours, and into every patient a brighter outlook and a renewed spirit that neither medicine nor surgery can accomplish.

"General Beach, although you have left us, your example has been an example for all. Your devotion to duty will spur every one here to accomplish more. And, if the Great Physician of all gives it to us, we ask only for a little of your modesty, your humility, your kindness, and your charity.

"It must have been in the Divine Plan that General Beach would never sink into the obscurity of retirement. He would never have been satisfied in letting others do what he felt he was born and educated to do. His life had to end this way. And, while every one of us deeply grieves his passing, we ask the Great Commander and Divine Physician of all to give General George C. Beach, the rest he deserves. May that long rest be eternal rest—in Peace."

General Beach was born in Topeka, Kans., 28 Oct. 1888. He was graduated from the Kansas City University Medical College in 1911 and the same year was commissioned a first lieutenant in the Medical Reserve Corps. In 1917 he became a Regular Army officer, with the rank then of first lieutenant. His first post was as assistant surgeon at Camp Sherman in the Panama Canal Zone during World War I.

In 1919 he was assigned to command the department hospital, Manila, P. I., and in 1920 he became chief of medical service at Sternberg General Hospital, Manila. From 1921 to 1925 General Beach was attending surgeon at Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco and headed the dispensary there until 1926. After attending the Mayo Foundation at Rochester, Minn., he was assigned to the General Dispensary, Washington, D. C., becoming Chief of Medical Service there in 1929. In 1930 he headed the medical division of the Gold Star Pilgrimage to Europe.

Returning to the United States in 1931, General Beach served as chief of the outpatient service, Station Hospital, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., and from 1935 to 1939 was chief of medical service at Ft. Leavenworth, Kans., Station Hospital. He then returned to Ft. Sam Houston as chief of medical service and was named commanding officer of the station hospital there in 1941. In November, 1942, General Beach assumed command of Brooke General Hospital, Ft. Sam Houston. In 1946 (February) General Beach assumed command of the Army Medical Center, Washington, D. C.

General Beach held the Distinguished Service Medal, the Legion of Merit, World War I Victory Medal and the World War II Victory Medal.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jessie S. Beach.

Honor GE President

Mr. Charles E. Wilson, president of the General Electric Company, has been chosen by the American Ordnance Association to receive the Association's Crozier Gold Medal for distinguished ordnance service, according to an announcement by Col. James L. Walsh, president of the Association.

The medal will be presented at the Industrial Preparedness meeting to be held at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York City, 6 Dec.

Paris Military Attache

Brig. Gen. Joseph J. O'Hare, USA, Chief, Personnel Management Group, Personnel and Administration, has been ordered to duty as military attache in Paris.

However, it was reported this week that General O'Hare will not leave his present post until the end of December.

New P&A Chief to Report

Maj. Gen. Edward H. Brooks, USA, formerly Commanding General of the Caribbean Command, will report for duty in Washington on 1 Dec.

On 31 Dec. General Brooks will succeed Lt. Gen. Willard S. Paul, USA, who is retiring, as Director of Personnel and Administration.

Medical Illustration Service

An exhibit prepared by the Army Medical Illustration Service of the Army Institute of Pathology was displayed at the recent Ohio Welfare Conference held in Columbus. The theme of the exhibit was "The Military Psychiatric Social Worker."

The exhibit pictorially displayed the need of 900,000 men and their dependents for the service of the "Military Neuropsychiatric Team," consisting of the neuropsychiatrist, the psychiatric nurse, and the psychiatric social worker.

Hoover Commission Report

Simplified and coordinated procedures in the purchase of both military and civilian supplies would result in annual savings to the Government of about $250,000,000 and a $2,500,000,000 reduction in inventories.

This was the conclusion voiced this week by former President Herbert Hoover, chairman of the Commission on Organization of the Executive Branch of the Government.

A special "task force," headed by Russell Forbes, formerly Commissioner of Purchase for the City of New York, noted that the Armed Forces spend $5,000,000,000 annually for materials, supplies and equipment.

Coupled with the $1,000,000,000 a year spent for purchases of civilian supplies, this amounts to the second largest expense item in the Federal budget.

The Committee noted that there are five underlying deficiencies in government supply operations—one of these being inadequate salaries paid for professional competence.

The lack of wide recognition of supply as an important executive function, the maze of laws and regulations and "unnecessary red tape," the inadequacy of advanced schedules of buying and vast difference in emphasis in regulation of the eight different mutually dependent functions that make up the supply function were also decried.

Would Appoint Secretaries

Secretary of Defense James Forrestal has reiterated his belief that the Secretary of Defense should be given the right to select the Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force. In an article in the current Saturday Evening Post, written by Mr. Forrestal in collaboration with Sidney Shalett, he states that the Secretary should have the authority to name his principal assistants, including the heads of subordinate departments. He also urges that the National Military Establishment be kept entirely out of politics.

Mr. Forrestal outlines the progress made under unification of the Military Establishment, and the economies resulting from its first year of operation. Among the gains listed by the Defense Secretary are the common approach to the mutual problems of the Services, the establishment of a War Council, the unified command of overseas areas, the development of a highly skilled civilian defense staff, the creation of the National Security Council, the National Resources Board, and the Research and Development Board, and the organization under the Joint Chiefs of Staff of a joint military staff, composed of a group of 100 Army, Navy, Marine and Air officers, devoted not to the interest of the individual Services, but to the National Security.

While strongly in favor of strengthening our Military Establishment in the interest of security, Mr. Forrestal expresses the belief that the odds continue to favor peace.

Napoleon said, "The greatest general is he who makes the fewest mistakes."

Sock 'em with a Load of Good Cheer

ALWAYS BRING CHESTERFIELD

Give 'em by the Carton!

Give 'em to everyone who smokes—the family, the neighbors, your friends—everyone who's been good to you all year. Chesterfields are the best tip I can give you at Christmas time or any time. When you give Chesterfields you sock 'em with a load of good cheer.
